Discontent Grips U.S.

ATLANTA (UPI)—The "rising tide" of racial discontent of which President Kennedy warned swept cities both North and South Thursday.

Jackson, Miss., where integration leader Medgar Evers was shot to death by a sniper, appeared to be potentially most explosive. The slaying touched off a new round of demonstrations in the city which has been quiet in recent days.

Tuscaloosa, Ala., while outwardly less of a tinder box, was far from normal. Hundreds of troops were moving into the city for possible duty at the University of Alabama, where two Negroes were admitted Monday.

There have been no signs of disorder on the campus, but the troops were moved up when Gov. George Wallace advised Kennedy the state would not be responsible for the safety of the students.

The president went before a national radio-television audience Tuesday to express regrets it had been necessary to use troops to get Negroes admitted. He urged every American to examine his conscience on the integration issue and warned of a "rising tide of discontent that threatens the public safety."

On the heels of his words came these developments:

Maryland—A night of rioting broke out in Cambridge when a group of chanting and singing Negroes paraded through the

King Fights Crisis

ATHENS (AP)—King Paul summoned opposition political leaders to his palace Wednesday in an effort to pull Greece out of a government crisis.

The political leaders came out of the meeting saying the best solution for the crisis would be for the king to appoint an interim government. Constantine Caramanlis, who resigned as premier Tuesday in protest of a state visit to Britain by King Paul and Queen Frederika, has demanded dissolution of Parliament and a new election.

King Paul could ignore the new election demand. But opposition by Caramanlis' National Radical Union, which holds 180 seats in the 300-member Parliament, could block any attempt to provide an effective alternative government.

Lie-In Ahead

NEW YORK (AP)—A Negro leader has promised a massive sit-in on the U.S. Congress in Washington this summer and said that if civil rights bills are filibustered, Negroes will put on a U.S.-wide campaign of civil disobedience.

Rev. George Lawrence said the protest would take the form of tying up transportation by "laying our bodies prostrate on runways of airports, across railroad tracks and in bus depots."

Senator Charges

JFK 'Shocker' Called Step To Communism

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Richard Russell, leader of the southern Congressional bloc, charged Wednesday President Kennedy was raising the spectre of mass racial violence to push civil rights proposals that were a step in the direction of socialism or communism.

Russell assailed the president's Tuesday civil rights speech as "shocking" and pledged to lead a fight against the administration's legislative package "with every means and resource at my command."

The Georgia Democrat took his stand in a statement issued as a caucus of Southern senators met behind closed doors to map strategy that undoubtedly would include a filibuster against the president's program.

Against the background of the ambush slaying of Negro integration leader Medgar Evers in Jackson, Miss., these other developments bore on the civil rights legislative picture:

● Kennedy conferred with former president Dwight Eisenhower on the civil rights legislation he will send Congress next week and the racial problem in general.

● Sen. Thurston Morton of Kentucky predicted the administration will be unable to pick up enough Republican votes to end a civil rights filibuster but said southern opposition could be beaten down by around-the-clock Senate sessions.

Russell charged a Kennedy

Canada Facing Turmoil

TORONTO (UPI)—Noted Canadian jazz pianist Oscar Peterson says racial turmoil will erupt in Canada unless Canadians end their "quiet segregation."

Peterson said many U.S. Negro students attending his advanced school for contemporary music have been refused apartments because of their color. His mother and sister recently were refused apartment space and took weeks to find a home.

Peterson, who refuses to perform in the Southern U.S. because, "It's just not worth it," said northern Americans and Canadians are "great tongue-cluckers."

"They shout shame, shame when they hear of segregation," he said. "But many of them condone and contribute to it."

ENTIRE FLQ FACES TRIAL

MONTREAL (CP)—Twenty-one members of the terrorist group Le Front de Liberation Quebecois were held criminally responsible Wednesday for the death by dynamite explosion of an army night watchman last April 20.

The late-night time-bomb blast was one of a series of terrorist activities in the Montreal area from March 8 when gasoline bottles were flung at Montreal Armories and May 20 when an armory was the scene of a dynamite blast.

A coroner's court jury of five men, ending a sometimes stormy three-day inquest, brought in a four-to-one majority verdict naming one by one the 21 persons, mostly in their teens and early 20s and one of them a young woman.

BY CORONER

All 21 were named by coroner Marcel Trahan in his address to the jury as members of the FLQ, "a group organized for the purpose of violence."

He said: "I believe the evidence demands that you find all of them criminally responsible. However, it is not up to me. You are the masters of the facts."

Jacques Dugros, a lawyer for the Crown, said that charges will be laid "as early as possible — perhaps within 48 hours."

MURDER CHARGE?

He was asked whether there would be charges of murder as a result of the death of Wilfred Vincent O'Neill, 65, killed when a bomb exploded at the rear of an army recruiting station.

"That is being studied," he said.

Reporters then asked whether the Crown would proceed by preferred indictment—a procedure bypassing the formality of a preliminary hearing—to send the 21 persons to trial immediately.

WRAPPED UP

"That, too, is being studied," Mr. Dugros said.

A reporter asked: "Does this wrap up the FLQ?"

He nodded.

"Do you have them all?"

"Yes."

The group concerned in the inquest verdict includes 15 material witnesses arrested in a series of police raids starting June 1. Held on coroner's warrants without charges, some have been in detention since that weekend.

The names of the six others came up in testimony at the inquest. Three of them were picked up by police Wednesday, one of them spotted in the court

Which One of Four?

Grave Yields Boy's Body

QUEBEC (CP)—Quebec Provincial Police Wednesday night found the body of a small boy in a shallow grave in Portneuf County, where they have been searching for clues to the disappearance of four boys in the last seven weeks.

Inspector J. Alphonse Matte said parents of the missing boys have been called to the morgue to try to identify the body.

It had apparently been buried beneath about eight inches of sandy soil for several weeks, he said.

NO INDICATION

There was no indication how the boy had died. He appeared to be about eight or 10 years old and weighed about 75 pounds. Inspector Matte said the teeth likely would lead to identification.

The body was found after dark by Inspector Matte, Sgt. Andre Ste. Marie and Cpl. J. A. Landry.

HUNTING CROWS

A youth in Portneuf County about 25 miles west of Quebec City was hunting crows Wednesday when he noticed them circling in one area.

This was what led police to the grave, in a meadow surrounded by trees and deep in the woods.

Secretary-treasurer Homer Stevens explained how the union literature got into the envelopes bearing the initials and free mailing privileges — frank — of Dr. William Howe, Hamilton South MP.

Used That 'Frank'

Fishing Union Sorry

VANCOUVER (CP)—The United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union (Ind.) Wednesday night apologized to a New Democratic Party member of Parliament for using his Parliamentary frank to distribute a union statement.

Secretary-treasurer Homer Stevens explained how the union literature got into the envelopes bearing the initials and free mailing privileges — frank — of Dr. William Howe, Hamilton South MP.

He said a union delegation was in the office Dr. Howe shares with New Westminster MP Barry Mathers. The delegation realized a release had not been sent to all Pacific Coast MPs.

The delegation in particular wanted to reach Grant Deschamps, Liberal member for Vancouver Quadra, who raised the issue about use of the frank in the Commons Tuesday.

"It would have only taken a few minutes to have walked over to our hotel and mailed Mr. Deschamps' and a few other notes, free of charge from there, using hotel envelopes. If we were such skinflints as is now suggested," said Mr. Stevens.

"However, unaware of the possible misconstruction that might be placed on so doing, the notes and releases were put in envelopes which apparently bore Dr. Howe's initials. We apologize to Dr. Howe and his staff for any embarrassment arising from this incident."

Convict Named In Death

WHITEHORSE, Yukon (CP)—

Kroli Marsi, 26, an immigrant from Hungary now in the B.C. Penitentiary, has been charged with capital murder in the death of Henry Meriguet, 20, of Annapolis, France, RCMP announced Wednesday.

Marsi, now serving 43 months in the penitentiary at New Westminster for burglary and theft, was charged Saturday.

Parts of a body, tentatively identified as that of Meriguet, were found May 27 by RCMP search dogs at an isolated Alaska Highway gravel pit 25 miles southeast of Whitehorse. RCMP at Whitehorse are awaiting reports on tests at the force's crime laboratory in Regina.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—A police dispatcher noted it was only 87 degrees, not too hot for this time of year, and immediately sent a car to arrest a man reported moving his lawn in the shade.

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—

President Romulo Betancourt announced in a broadcast Wednesday night that terrorists plotted to assassinate him with a time bomb in an archbishop's palace and that he has ordered the arrest of all Communists in Venezuela.

The incident occurred in Ciudad Bolivar, a river port 275 miles southeast of Caracas, shortly before Betancourt was scheduled to arrive for the inaugural of the new palace.

Police guards captured two of the terrorists but a third got away, the announcement said, and a high-powered bomb was taken from the captives.

Betancourt, who has escaped several previous attempts on his life, is on an extensive tour of the interior of Venezuela inaugurating public works projects.

Macmillan Must Go Cabinet Rebels Feel

LONDON (Reuters)—Political observers were skeptical Wednesday night of assurances from the scandal-ridden Conservative government that a Conservative party revolt to oust Prime Minister Harold Macmillan had been safely avoided. (See also Page 18.)

BEFORE DEBATE

The four ministers were reported ready to use their own resignations as a weapon to force Macmillan to quit before next Monday's parliamentary debate on the Profumo scandal—the worst crisis Macmillan has ever faced.

The independent Times of London says the "sorry business" resulting from the scandal over ex-war minister John Profumo who resigned because he lied about his affair with a London model "has passed from being one of politics to one of conscience."

The Times said the real test may come today when the cabinet meets.

"Certainly one or two ministers, perhaps four in all, will have to come to terms with

Trapped by Squatters

Jagan Shoots Way Out

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (AP)—With bodyguards firing pistols from both sides of the car, leftist Premier Cheddi Jagan's automobile burst through a hostile crowd outside the Parliament Building Wednesday. Six persons were reported injured.

The incident occurred after Trades Union Council squatters, increasingly menacing in their eight-week general strike, had trapped Jagan, dentist of East Indian origin, and the rest of his cabinet in the building. The strike was called to protest against a labor bill which Jagan's foes say would give the premier control over workers in a move toward a dictatorship. The shooting incident touched off a new wave of looting in the capital. In the city, Negroes were reported to have beaten up East Indians, while in rural areas Negroes were attacked by East Indians. Police reported making more than 100 arrests following incidents Tuesday.

Mercury Program Closed

U.S. Orders Full Speed On Gemini Moon Project

WASHINGTON (AP)—The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has closed its Mercury-manned satellite program to concentrate on project Gemini, the next step toward a manned moon landing.

Shortly after the full-speed-ahead decision on Gemini was announced, NASA disclosed the resignation of D. Brainerd Holmes as head of the Apollo program.

There was no indication that the two developments were related.

Meanwhile former president Dwight Eisenhower said Wednesday "anybody who would spend $40,000,000 in a race to the moon for national prestige is nuts."

His blunt remark at a breakfast meeting with about 160 Republican congressmen drew sustained applause.

Three Hours in Jail For Manslaughter

RED DEER, Alta.—Jack Robbins, 18, of Stettler, pleaded guilty to manslaughter in the death of Marvin Flispenko, 21, after a scuffle outside a dance hall.

Alberta Supreme Court Justice Harold Riley said he felt "a wee bit sorry" for Robbins since he did not seem to be the aggressor. But the Criminal Code demands a jail term for manslaughter, so he gave Robbins one of three hours. He also fined Robbins $200, with two weeks to pay.

HOLLYWOOD — Actress Dolores Hart, 24, whose 16 films and Broadway plays included Francis of Assisi, an Elvis Presley movie and an Ernie Kovacs comedy, gave up her career to become a nun.

LONDON—Admiral of the Fleet Viscount Cunningham, Second World War naval chief in the Mediterranean, died suddenly in a cab. He was 80.

BASEL, Switzerland — Israeli agents Josef Ben Gal, 33, and Otto Joklik, 41, were given two-month jail terms for threatening West German rocket expert Prof. Paul Fierke because he worked for Egypt.

VATICAN CITY—Stock of Cardinal Montini, 65, archbishop of Milan and a policy-maker for Pope Pius, rose higher in speculation on the new pope when he was backed by Vatican official Cardinal Ciriaco, 77, known as a "pope maker."

DAWSON CREEK—Mrs. J. H. Fox says the note her daughter Donna, 23, put in an apple box was just a joke. The note, which said a husband was sought, was found by grocer Bert May of Folkestone, England, who's already married. Donna and friends working on a New Zealand apple farm apparently put notes in many boxes, like someone tossing a bunch of bottled notes in the ocean.

NEWARK — Anthony (Tony Pro) Prevorseo, 46, leader of the New Jersey Teamsters council, was convicted of extorting $17,100 from a New York trucking firm. He faces a maximum of 30 years in jail and $10,000 fine.

WEST WYCOMBE, England — Two rooms in the George and Dragon pub were sealed off in 1720, giving rise to such traditions as tales of murder, bags of gold, black magic and riotous orgies. The rooms were opened this week and workman Jack Richardson reported: "There's nothing in there but two centuries of cobwebs and dust."

BOSTON — The colonial home of tax-troubled textile magnate Bernard Goldfine was auctioned to a savings and loan firm for $38,000. His downtown building was sold earlier for $2,000,000.

REDONDO BEACH, Calif. — A 35-foot, $50,000 yacht which sank in 40 feet of water last week was written off by an insurance firm and salvage rights were sold to author Leonard Wibberley for $500. He and friends have raised it through use of inner tubes.

OTTAWA — RCAF Air Marshal Roy Stenson, 58, is expected to retire this summer as deputy chief of NORAD. Successor will be U.S.-born Air Vice-Marshal Max Hendrick, 53.

Highway Subsidy Policy Demanded by Bennett

NELSON — Premier Bennett yesterday demanded the creation of a national highway policy based on federal subsidies.

He said it was a shame that Canada could boast only one Trans-Canada Highway.

The U.S. government, he claimed, pays 90 per cent of the cost of all highways and Ottawa should pay at least 50 per cent.

Glassco Report Says:

Delegate Powers For Efficiency

OTTAWA (CP)—Federal cabinet ministers are overloaded and government machinery would work more efficiently if some of their powers were delegated to others, the Glassco royal commission said Wednesday in its fifth and final report.

Winding up its monumental study of government organization, the three-man commission summarized its findings in a 2,500-word examination of how government action evolves from the political leadership, through the civil service apparatus and into public field.

It contained no hard blueprint for government operation, unlike the earlier massive reports that dealt with specific problems and departments.

But it emphasized that freedom of operation is the key to improving the performance of the federal units and to this end the individual departments and agencies should be stripped of time-wasting red tape, particularly in field operations.

Maurice Lamontagne, president of the Privy Council, tabled the report in the Commons with a brief statement that said the for Columbia downstream power.

This became evident here at noon yesterday when Premier Bennett addressed a Chamber of Commerce luncheon in the heart of Columbia territory.

For the first time he retreated from his repeated demand that B.C.'s downstream power entitlement must bring five mills per kilowatt-hour "or its equivalent."

PRICE DROPS

Previously he had defined the equivalent as the full cost of the B.C. Columbia treaty dams, plus enough money to build a 2,000,000-horsepower plant at Mica Creek.

Yesterday the price dropped to the cost of the treaty dams and "a large share of the cost of generating facilities."

His statement confirmed speculation that the U.S. is prepared to go most of the way toward the five-mill price, but not all the way.

OAS 'Failure,' Bolivia Quits

LA PAZ (UPI) — Bolivia will pull out of the Organization of American States permanently due to its failure to resolve a border river dispute, the foreign minister announced Wednesday.

Foreign Minister Feiman Velarde said the OAS has proven itself "an incompetent organism" because of its inability to resolve Bolivia's Lauca River dispute with Chile.

Last year Bolivia withdrew temporarily from the OAS to press for action in the dispute.

JFK Aid Bill Turned Down

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy Wednesday night suffered his biggest legislative defeat of the year when the House turned down expression of the depressed areas aid program.

The unexpected upset apparently was a result of the strong new stand Kennedy has taken on civil rights. The House defeated Kennedy's bill by a five-vote margin.

Bennett Drops His Price

In his Nelson speech he continued to flog the former Diefenbaker government over the Columbia issue.

He said Mr. Diefenbaker had rushed off to Washington like an "over-anxious bridegroom" to get the treaty signed by former President Eisenhower before reaching agreement with B.C. on the terms.

It was like a salesman trying to sell a house without first having an agreement with the owner, he charged.

He expressed confidence the Columbia project will now go ahead and said terms of an agreement he worked out with officials of the Pearson government in Ottawa last week will go before the provincial cabinet on its current Kootenay tour.

some serious personal doubts before casting the die and committing themselves to collective responsibility."

The Express says the group of four ministers is headed by Health Minister Enoch Powell.

SUMP LIKELY

Others were reported to be Home Secretary Henry Brooke, Education Minister Sir Edward Boyle and Housing Minister Sir Keith Joseph.

The newspapers says the ministers believe Macmillan's appearance in the House of Commons Monday could cause a slump in Conservative support in the House.

The ministers were hoping to force Macmillan to resign before Monday so a new Conservative leader could face the House of Commons.

"All four ministers involved are furious that their work—much of it concerned with plans to modernize Britain—should be jeopardized simply because the 'old gang' wishes to cling together."

But some observers discussing Wednesday's cabinet meeting suggested confidence in Macmillan's ability to weather the storm.

NO INTENTION

They said Macmillan has no intention of resigning over the Profumo crisis and none of his colleagues has resigned over it and none plans to.

Political observers said that despite his success with the cabinet, Macmillan still faces a crisis over weakening confidence in his leadership among Conservative party rank-and-file.

A Place in History

IN REACHING HIS decision to ask Congress to commit itself to the proposition that "race has no place in American life or American law," President Kennedy has demonstrated his dedication to the highest principles of his office and to the Constitution of the United States.

In an address to the people of the United States Tuesday Mr. Kennedy pledged that he would call upon the legislative council of the nation to authorize all steps necessary to guarantee the full rights of citizenship to all Americans regardless of their color or racial origins.

By following the action he contemplates Mr. Kennedy steps courageously into an area where his predecessors have always feared to tread.

It is an historical fact that despite the 14th and 15th amendments to the Constitution which bestow the full rights and privileges of citizenship upon the American Negro being in force for more than 90 years, no other president during that long period of time has shown even the slightest desire to take upon himself a personal responsibility to insure that these integral articles of the Constitution are upheld.

Most, indeed, for political and personal reasons, have been happy to avoid the issue at all costs. And those who have unwillingly become involved have been content to let the matter rest in the hands of the courts.

Through his set course Mr. Kennedy undoubtedly has attained a new maturity and gained in stature in the eyes of the outside world, while to his own people he has set an example of high morality in which political ambition and expediency has no place.

By what he has said and through what he hopes to achieve President Kennedy has assured himself a special place in the history of the United States and of the world. Apart from all else, he has become the first American president able, with an open conscience, to repeat the American Creed adopted by the House of Representatives in 1918.

It reads in part: "I believe in the United States of America as a government of the people, by the people, for the people; whose just powers are derived from the consent of the governed; a democracy within a republic; a sovereign nation of many sovereign states, a perfect union, one and inseparable; established upon those principles of freedom, equality, justice and humanity for which American patriots sacrificed their lives and fortunes . . ."

Balancing the Bills

ONE can see an anomaly in the white paper presented to Parliament by the finance minister—albeit of the kind common to governments in the present day and age—in that while internationally the country is on the economic upgrade, domestically it is still embroiled in huge deficits. In its house-keeping it fails to keep on an even keel.

There is the promise that an adverse decade has ended and that externally the country is in good shape, but contrasted with this is the total deficit bill run up during the past six years. It is worth noting that the economic decline began two months before the Diefenbaker government took office, proof that it inherited a receding situation which unluckily for it coincided with its years of administration.

Yet revenues have been rising buoyantly to new heights, which suggest inescapably that the demands made on government spending have far exceeded the budget capacity to meet. The high standards which we aim at in relation to health, education, public works, social welfare, material aids of various kinds, are more than the nation has been able to afford.

Charge it—that is, put the obligation to pay on future generations—is the current theme enjoined on nearly all governments everywhere, yet a halt must be exercised if the internal economy is to be stabilized to more equitable levels. Nor is increased taxation the answer, for the law of diminishing returns apply to curb business and industrial expansion and thereby the means of paying the taxes.

Mr. Gordon thus faces a difficult problem if he is to lessen the incidence of deficits, the more so if his party's election promises are to be fulfilled with their contemplated sharp rise in government spending. The budget he introduces today should show how he plans to assess the measures which are possible while moving towards an eventual balancing of the federal finances.

Warning Enough

WITHOUT questioning the earnestness of the Canadian Medical Association in its desire to protect the health of the nation by waging a campaign against smoking, at least two aspects of the doctors' approach to persuading more Canadians to forgo cigarettes may be viewed with skepticism.

Their program as approved in general council in Toronto includes asking the federal government to consider legislation requiring manufacturers to put labels on cigarette packages warning that the contents are dangerous to health; asking for a declaration by Health Minister Judy LaMarsh that there is a definite connection between lung cancer and smoking; and that lung cancer is a major health problem; seeking educational action through governments, schools, advertisers and advertising media; calling for enforcement of the law against selling cigarettes to children under 16, and discouraging cigarette-smoking on a person-to-person basis.

This plan of action in its entirety emphasizes the concern with which the doctors of Canada, as a body, regard the perils of smoking. It seems doubtful though that their purpose will be greatly served by the first two items in the program, for beyond a point, especially in the "official" sense, warning becomes tiresome. The physicians' own recognition of the dangers of smoking carries more weight than would a governmental declaration from Miss LaMarsh; labels on cigarette packages would soon be no more read nor noticed than excise stamps—but could, indeed, help to convince youngsters of the "grown-upness" of smoking.

These weaker proposals perhaps will not greatly lessen the impact of the doctors' campaign, if at all, and it would be a pity if they did. But its main strength is in the fact that the medical men of Canada, in the best position to observe the results of smoking, are now so thoroughly impressed by the evidence as to mount this all-out attack on the problem. That should be warning enough for many smokers.

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes, and ships, and sealing wax ..."

By TOM TAYLOR

FUNNY thing really the public purse. Theoretically it's yours and mine, but some of us wouldn't sleep at night if we had the handling of it. Not when we overspent ourselves by untempered millions in a year.

Unfortunately private finance and public finance are not quite the same thing. Few of us could deliberately budget for a deficit if only because we wouldn't know how to keep head above water, and by all the laws of good sense the latter is the thing to do.

A nation's purse, paradoxically, although yours and mine, is a much different thing. A nation can pile up the debts with an insouciance that makes one envious.

Well, some people do follow this rote too, recking not of the day of settlement and going through life with gay unconcern at being forever in the red.

Alas, I was wrongly brought up, apparently.

CANADA is a good place for troops to train in. It has lots of wide open spaces and its camps are spacious. Strange though in a way, German units go to England to train and English units come to Canada.

But one presumes of course that the Canadian and British armies have a concord forged in war and so it's natural they should join together in peacetime exercises.

Anyway, according to a note I've received from the U.K. information service in Vancouver the Queen's Own Buffs will arrive in Canada this month to train with the 3rd Canadian Infantry Brigade at Gagetown, New Brunswick.

In a big scale manoeuvre called "Pond Jump III." They do things up fancy names for military exercises. This would suggest the troops are in for a lot of jumping over water and that this is the third time running.

I daresay there's much truth in the title, too.

The modern Buffs are a combination of two famous Kentish regiments whose origins go back to 1572. Probably there are some old Buffs amongst us in Victoria.

These regiments have a link with this town, or will have when the Queen's Own Buffs replace the Patricia's at Work Point Barracks later this year.

In keeping with the practice that links Canadian and British regiments in comradeship fashion the Buffs are allied with the QORs.

ANOTHER example of things Canadians and Britons have in common will come when the pride of Wolverhampton meet the pride of Victoria at Royal Athletic Park next Monday evening.

They call the soccer giants of Wolverhampton the "Wanderers," but their wandering takes the form of having a liking for the other team's goalmouth.

And it will be to stop them from too close an acquaintance with this objective that the pick of the locals, the All Stars, will be at pains to achieve.

This Wolverhampton club is one of the top-class professional clubs in England, a team with a great competitive spirit and ample football skill.

The game here is a "friendly," an exhibition, but the All Stars can be depended on to force the Wanderers to display the talents that makes them famous.

It should be a fine attraction, well worth the price of admission whether one is a devotee of soccer or not. When well played, as it should be on Monday, football of this variety is a treat.

I daresay the Staffordshire expatriates will be in force, and many others, it is hoped, as well.

Against External, Internal Threats

South Africa Overhauls Defences

By a Special OFNS Correspondent from Cape Town

LET them come—we are ready for them! This was the defiant reply of a South African minister to the Addis Ababa conference of African leaders. The minister, Mr. Ben Schoeman, warned 3,000 school children whom he was addressing that the next generation of white South Africans would have to be prepared to offer everything, including their lives, to defend their country.

The defence minister, Mr. Jim Fouché said: "We will stand armed against the outside world. It has been decided at Addis Ababa to launch a military attack against South Africa in the future, but we give them the assurance that if they attempt such an attack we will hit back tremendously hard."

Mr. Fouché, in another speech, said the time was not far off when every white boy in South Africa would be doing nine months' compulsory military training . . . "whether he has flat feet or not."

South Africa has a bigger and better equipped army than any of the independent African states which attended the Addis Ababa conference. In the past four years the defence budget has increased four-fold. Part of the re-equipment and reorganization of the South African Defence Force is designed to fit into the general internal security pattern, so that it can assist police to quell internal unrest.

The head of the defence force, Gen. P. H. Grobbelaar, said recently that soldiers might have to restore order as happened during the state of emergency in 1960. They should use the minimum force possible. For this reason South Africa was ensuring that it had its own supplies of tear gas in case imports were cut off. Tear gas was an example of the use of minimum force.

The defence minister, replying to the accusation that the defence force was being equipped mainly to deal with possible internal unrest, said: "Can there be a person in the world who is so stupid as to believe that we should have to buy modern aircraft, that we should buy modern ships, that we should buy modern anti-aircraft guns and that we should buy aircraft travelling at twice the speed of sound to fight against our internal population?"

The minister's reply was logical. Whatever steps are being taken to enable the defence force to co-operate with the police force, it is a fact that the army, the air force and the navy are being expanded considerably for use against possible external attack. South Africa buys Buccaneers and Lockheed aircraft from Britain, Alouette helicopters from France, and certain undisclosed equipment from the U.S. This is only part of substantial military purchases from the West.

Now Mr. Harold Wilson, British Labor leader, has stated that a Labor government would halt supplies of arms to South Africa, and at the United Nations, Norway has called for an arms embargo. The Afro-Asian nations have for some time imposed a total trade and diplomatic boycott.

Mr. Harold Wilson's statement has provoked angry replies from Dr. Verwoerd's government. A minister has hinted that South Africans might boycott British goods in retaliation. As a precaution against arms supplies being cut off, South Africa is manufacturing as much equipment as it can. A new munitions factory is making 92 different items of arms and ammunition.

South Africa's permanent force consists of 15,200 officers and men. The citizen force—men who are called up for nine months' compulsory training—numbers 70,000. The Commandos ("week end units") have another 80,000 men. The minister of defence said this year: "I should very much like to organize a division for women in our defence force . . . they could release many men for active service." All these forces consist of white men. Non-whites are used in the defence force only in a non-combat capacity.

The police force has 12,200 whites and 13,700 non-whites. The police "A" reserve will shortly have 10,000 members. The police "B" reserve, or home guard, consists of citizens who will protect their own homes in times of emergency. They are trained in the use of their own firearms and supervised by the police.

There is a big recruiting campaign in progress, and about 7,000 white men have enrolled. In an emergency, therefore, nearly 200,000 white South Africans could be brought out either to quell internal disturbances or to repel external attacks. The white population numbers three million, against 11 million Africans, 1,500,000 Coloureds (of mixed-race descent) and 450,000 Indians.

There has been speculation on South Africa, Southern Rhodesia and the Portuguese colonies of Angola and Mozambique forming a white military bloc. Some of the speculation has been exaggerated. While the independent African leaders see little difference between the policies of these three countries, there are in fact differences which severely limit collaboration. Dr. Verwoerd has referred to the "great differences" between the policies of South Africa and Southern Rhodesia; Mr. Winston Field, prime minister of Southern Rhodesia has said it is "nonsense" to compare his policy with apartheid; and the Portuguese officially pursue a policy of assimilation which is anathema to Dr. Verwoerd's government.

These policy differences have given rise to important tactical differences. Southern Rhodesia and Portugal do not want to be associated too closely with apartheid in public for fear of provoking further trouble for themselves among their African populations. Dr. Verwoerd, for different reasons, steers clear of any form of political alliance: apparently he suspects that Angola, Mozambique and Southern Rhodesia will have multi-racial governments one day, and he does not want to be identified too closely with the existing governments there.

Dr. Verwoerd, clearly, harbors hopes of being able to arrange a form of co-existence with these territories one day when they are under multi-racial rule.

There is little likelihood of South Africa, Southern Rhodesia and Angola and Mozambique entering into a military mutual defence pact. South Africa is the only member who could offer assistance, and if South African troops were to be dispatched across the border to help quell black uprisings, there could easily be a war in Africa. Apparently, the white rulers in Southern Africa recognize fully the potential explosiveness of a military alliance.

Bad Manners

By GREGORY CLARK

THE Board of Broadcast Governors possibly does not conceive it to be one of their functions to teach manners to the advertising industry. But here is a situation somebody ought to do something about, since the broadcasting and advertising industry hasn't. And that is when one of the great major TV or radio programs is presented; some classic drama, or perhaps a Beethoven hour at its lovely best. It is coast to coast. Tens of thousands of dollars have been spent on its production, the greatest artists employed.

As the magnificent program ends, as the last strains of its accompanying music dies, exactly on the cut, clipped instant of its allotted time on the air, there is a sudden explosion of rackety, incredibly vulgar sound. The local station has cut in one of its commercials, may, a couple of cartoon ducks, or a patent medicine man with his soap box patter. Probably 90 per cent of the listening audience leaps in anguish and shuts the TV or radio off. But the aesthetic mood inspired by the great production is lost, lost in anger and instant distress.

It took our society a long time to teach that it is bad manners to eat peas with a knife. The advertising trade is doing a lot of pea-eating with the knife. Should not commercials be classified? Class A commercials available for use in any association. Class B with certain restrictions. Class C, the largest class, restricted firmly for use only preceding or following prize fights, wrestling bouts and programs of the cheaper pop sort. Is this an invasion of advertisers' rights? Not at all. Newspapers do not accept ads that are in poor taste.

Probably the best the four territories can do is to exchange political information concerning African guerrilla and liberatory movements, to repatriate political refugees, and to revise customs tariffs, arrange trade pacts and offer loans—South Africa has the initiative here—to buttress the economy of the white bloc.

For the rest, the white bloc has no choice except to equip itself and wait to see what the independent African states will do next. The forecast is that Angola will be singled out first for a concerted attack by Portuguese Africans, operating from the Congo, with substantial aid from Algeria and elsewhere. If Angola falls Mozambique would not be able to hold out indefinitely. Of Southern Rhodesia's white government might be overthrown first. Then it would be South Africa's turn.

These thoughts flit through the minds of the more politically-conscious white South Africans. The defence minister has suggested that South Africa will face serious trouble in 1965—and there appears to be reasonable grounds for this prophecy.

A Loyal Caucus

By RICHARD JACKSON
Colonist Ottawa Bureau

FORGET, for some months yet, anyway, those inspired rumors that John Diefenbaker, isolated politically and without friends personally, is being driven from the Conservative leadership.

True, the Conservatives remain deeply divided, certainly in circles outside of Parliament; and even, it's whispered, in the ranks of its House of Commons membership.

The same forces that plotted against John Diefenbaker when he was prime minister in the dying days of the last Parliament still conspire to assassinate him as Opposition Leader in these opening weeks of the new administration.

They contend quite openly that he, with his indecision and vacillation, rather than they with the unforgivable treachery of their cabinet chiefs, must be held to blame for the party's defeat after only six short years of power.

Oddly, it doesn't seem to have occurred to them that their scarcely concealed conspiracy—it was an open secret on Parliament Hill as early as last fall—may have contributed to the indecision and executive delay of which they so bitterly complained, and took such drastic action to end.

While they represent a large section—perhaps even a majority—of the organizational and financial apparatus of the party, they lack the essential power of the key political command posts to be able to do anything about it.

For the Conservative Commons caucus—which speaks for the party in Parliament, and commands the public eye and ear—remains loyal, with certain few exceptions, to John Diefenbaker.

But an even more serious problem frustrates the hopes and perhaps the plans of the Conservative "kingmakers."

It's simply that they have no successor in sight acceptable to the Commons caucus, the party's working rank and file and the constituency executives who cast the votes and make or break the leader at any party convention.

Manitoba's Premier Duff Roblin, young, smart, personable, even politically attractive, has one fatal flaw: he comes from west of the Lakehead, and the party can't afford and won't take another leader from the Prairies in that kind of direct one-two succession.

Nova Scotia's Premier Stanfield remains pretty much of an unknown, nationally.

Ontario's Premier Roberts has trouble of his own, faces a provincial election, and could only be a serious contender, perhaps two years from now, if he won and held the province this time in a landslide.

But the Commons caucus is the key to the situation.

Regardless of what happened in this election—and most, if not all, 95 Conservative MPs won personal rather than party victories—few would deny that Diefenbaker made it possible in the first place in the '57 and '58 campaigns when the "magic" now tarnished, was so glitteringly bright.

And even though gratitude is hardly the chief virtue of politics, few forget '58.

In the caucus there is some—not much—disaffection. As one disillusioned MP put it: "With only 95 seats, we don't represent the majority of party opinion anymore—we're missing just too many, 170, seats."

But the men who boss the caucus are Diefenbaker's men. Loyal, able, tough.

They include former defence minister Churchill, and former cabinet ministers, Monteith of health and welfare, Mike Starr of labor, prairie political "wonder boy" Alvin Hamilton of agriculture and Angus MacLean of fisheries.

There are others, like Walter Dinsdale of northern affairs, George Nowlan of finance and Leon Baker of transport, but Gordon Churchill and his partisans that formed the Praetorian Guard around John Diefenbaker are the hard men.

As long as they rule the caucus roost, the kingmakers and their rebel rankers must compose their plotting souls in patience.

Our Readers' Views

WHEN the B.C. ferry system between Nanaimo and Horseshoe Bay was owned by the Black Ball Company running in competition with Canadian Pacific ferries it was interesting to note their promptness, courtesy and care. In comparison it is very interesting to note the "couldn't care less" attitude of the civil servants who run this system which now has a monopoly.

Firstly the government refuses to reinstate an early morning or late night ferry and as a result without a 6 o'clock ferry one cannot get over in time for a 9 a.m. meeting, meaning one has to leave the night before and stay the night in Vancouver; also a late night engagement necessitates the expense of a night in Vancouver.

After having to tolerate this lack of service I was dealt further insult when the ticket sales for the 4:40 p.m. ferry were cut off sharply at 4:40 p.m. with only two cars still in line. The ferry had not yet begun to load and there was only at the outside a third of a ferry load on the ramp. The reason given by the ticket seller was that as this was officially sailing time he was not allowed to sell any more tickets.

Short Changed

The color struggle portrays the inability of people to accept life as a whole. The tendency to break it down into separate entities. Yet life embodies both color and the human element. And they in turn embody creation.

Creation cannot respect persons. Color being a free agent everywhere but in human attitudes. Apparently of course people are in bondage to color. It being obvious that man as a whole subscribes to no particular pigment.

Just as knowledge brings good and evil and male and female bring sex, so creation brings color but attitudes discount creation and short change us all.

Legislation, which cannot create equality, only emphasizes that color is never judged in this sense but in comparison with light. A color bar is a myth dreamed up to satisfy human attitudes.

It is submitted that men, in fact, are born neither free nor equal. These are figures of speech and what they stand for acquired characteristics relatively speaking.

All men are free and equal where all men are whole. That is, in a kingdom not of this world.

Driver's Logic

The Courtroom Parade head "Female Logic Falls" in your paper June 5 said in part, "Miss Briggs said she was parked after store hours and no one was using the driveway." (I'm not that silly.)

The following was my contention and I still would like to know why there is a sign embedded in the curb in front of Eaton's Warehouse and Bargain Centre, 700 Block, View Street, which reads "No parking 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. Loading zone," with a red arrow indicating the entrance? If, according to the Motor Vehicle Act, it is considered a driveway, then the time period should not be on the sign. Is my female logic wrong?

Shocking Quote

More tobacco per head of population is used in Jersey, Channel Islands, than anywhere else in the world, and it also has the highest lung cancer death rate for males in the world, and an exceptionally high rate for women. The air of Jersey is free from pollution, and no case of lung cancer was found by health officials among non-smokers during a one-year period of investigation. Every human ear should put that in his pipe and smoke it before burying his head in the sand.—Lord Newton, Britain Joint Parliamentary Secretary of Health.

Blacks to Have Own Nation

Verwoerd Rushing Partition

From Capetown

The South African government has decided in principle that it will eventually cede up to 40 per cent of the country to the Africans, to be ruled by African leaders as part of the black South Africa that is to arise alongside the white one.

The new policy is, in effect, one of eventual partition, the pace of which is being speeded up under the pressure of world opinion.

This is the secret of the government's confidence in its ability, given time, to make terms with African nationalism.

It adds meaning to Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd's own remark that he "wants a white South Africa, even if it is a small one."

A clue to the tempo of these developments was given in a recent article in Die Burger, official organ of the Nationalist Party, which said "What ought to have been done humanely and carefully over the period of years will have to be compressed into months." The Cape, up to somewhere beyond Port Elizabeth, the southern Transvaal (including Johannesburg and Pretoria), and, of course, the Orange Free State, from which so many Nationalist leaders come, are to form white South Africa.

40 Per Cent Of Country To Be Ceded

Natal Zululand, the Transkei and part of the eastern Cape, and the whole of the eastern, northern and western Transvaal will become African-ruled territory; the Transvaal Bantu states will form a menacing-looking ring around Pretoria and Reef white enclave.

The existence of this plan explains the extraordinary leading article in Die Burger of May 30 which refused to give support to white Nationalists who are being roused against the government by the United Party on the ground that the Afrikaner Nationalists are largely handing their province over to the Zulus and other tribes.

The article said that the Nationalists would fail because their attitudes were those of colonialism and it could not support attitudes of "baas-ship" (masterhood) which were out of date.

"Unless we create areas of black liberty," the paper concluded, "the whole of South Africa will become black."

This seems to be the key-stone of Nationalist policy—a devolution of power to the Africans as rapidly as possible in perhaps half the country for the sake of preserving the rest, a much smaller South Africa than exists today, as a white state, though clearly including the Cape Colored population.

South African officials admit that there are bound ultimately to be some multi-colored areas between the black and the white ones.

By ED MEAGHER from Hong Kong

About 100 Chinese who left India as an aftermath to Red China's invasion there have arrived to settle in the nearby Portuguese colony of Macao, according to word reaching here.

The newcomers, most said to be comparatively affluent, expect to be joined soon by another 300 whose applications have reportedly been approved by the Macao government.

All presumably are leaving India because of anti-Chinese sentiment that welled up following the October military adventure.

Macao is an enclave of six square miles on the Chinese coast. Other refugees from India have returned to China itself.

Among these were 662 who arrived at the South China port of Chankiang—the second shipload of Chinese to be ferried from India after being interned there.

The first group of 909 has been sent to state farms in Yunnan Province.

There were approximately 15,000 overseas Chinese throughout India when hostilities began last year. Of these, according to Indian sources, about 2,000 were interned since they were believed to be Communists or sympathizers.

Macao is one of the few places in the world where Chinese are freely accepted as immigrants. With its tiny size, business or professional opportunities are extremely limited. Most of the newcomers, after a time, probably will try to make their way one way or another to overcrowded Hong Kong.

India Struggles To Feed Hungry

By PETER JACKSON from New Delhi

India is struggling to become self-sufficient in food production.

The present target is 100,000,000 tons of food grains by 1965-66, but last year production was only 79,800,000 tons, a drop of 1,200,000 tons from 1961, a record year, and not enough to fill the stomachs of India's hungry millions.

While last year's poor harvest is attributed to bad weather, experts here stress that attempts to increase production have so far met with only moderate success.

Figures issued by the International Food and Agriculture Organization show India is well below world averages in production of rice, wheat, barley, and corn, as well as cash crops such as cotton, peanuts and tobacco.

That the soil can produce much more has been graphically demonstrated by four Japanese farmers who quadrupled the rice crop on a demonstration plot in one year. In the second year, they produced nearly six times the original crop.

These increases were achieved by efficient water management, balanced fertilization of the crop and the use of small farm machines.

It was also the result of much harder work than is done by most Indian farmers, whose main aim is still to meet the needs of their own family rather than those of the market.

In many cases too, Indians produce uneconomical crops because it is too expensive for them to buy the same products from distant markets.

India's population now is about 460,000,000 and increasing at the rate of 10,000,000 every year.

The effort to boost production is carried on through nationwide government extension plans, through village community development and by means of a government-sponsored cooperative movement, irrigation program and increased artificial fertilizer production.

Efforts are being made to popularize Japanese farm implements and rice techniques. At present, rice and wheat, with a few curried vegetables, make up the daily food of most Indians.

Budget Speech Ends Years of Frustration

Gordon Gets His Chance Tonight—At Last

By ALAN DONNELLY from Ottawa

After years of back-seat driving behind governments, Walter Lockhart Gordon finally has his hands on the wheel.

The 57-year-old finance minister shows his steering skill in the House of Commons tonight when he presents the budget speech that will chart government operations and influence the entire economy during the year ahead.

The slim, grey-haired economist now has the chance to put into effect the tax and fiscal ideas he has been recommending for years, principally as the chairman of the 1955-57 royal commission on Canada's economic prospects and later as a leading brain-truster of the Liberal party when in opposition.

The preliminary report of the Gordon royal commission was made public Jan. 10, 1957, amid speculation that Mr. Gordon might be tabbed for a place in the then Liberal cabinet. Five months later the Liberals fell from power and much of his report, with its recommendations and painstaking study of the nation's economy, was pigeonholed.

In the 1958 election campaign Mr. Gordon openly supported Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson. Eight days after the election his royal commission's financial report came out. It went into an even deeper pigeonhole than the earlier report.

Consider, too, his role as opposition financial critic during the 1962-63 Parliament when there was no government budget to criticize.

As bad luck would have it, his main speech of that session coincided with the evening the Cuban crisis broke on the world. It was like shouting into an empty barrel.

Tonight the Commons chamber and its galleries will be full and the country will be waiting intently when Mr. Gordon walks to his front-row desk to unwrap his budget secrets.

It's inevitable that many people will be comparing the budget contents with a slender, 134-page book called Troubled Canada which Mr. Gordon wrote in 1961. Already many of its key proposals have been adopted by the Liberal government.

The parallel between the book and the government's actions shouldn't be surprising. It was written following the policy-setting national Liberal rally. The chairman of the rally's policy committee? Mr. Gordon.

Chiang Kai-Shek's Spies Arrested in Hong Kong

By RICHARD HUGHES from Hong Kong

Hong Kong's police have arrested leaders of a highly-organized espionage and sabotage ring operating inside the colony on behalf of the Chinese Nationalist Government.

In addition to hidden stores of explosives and arms, police also seized radio equipment, secret documents, maps, codes and a list of Nationalist intelligence agents.

Two agents were arrested on the premises of an export and import firm on the waterfront in downtown Hong Kong. One is said to be a high-ranking officer in the Chinese Nationalist intelligence forces.

It is understood that the Hong Kong authorities, embarrassed at the continuing operations of Nationalists inside the colony, will now begin to impose long terms of imprisonment on detected offenders.

In the past, arrested agents have been merely detained after questioning and then deported to Formosa.

More Sorrow to Come

Alabama Victory Is Only a Symbol

By HAROLD MORRISON from Washington

By enrolling two "troop-supported" students in an all-white Alabama University, American Negroes have breached in token form the last citadel of resistance to school integration in the U.S. South.

But the step is only a symbol in the Negroes' long, weary, battle march to "full citizenship." As ominously forewarned by the shot in the dark of Wednesday morning that killed Medgar Evers, a Negro leader in Jackson, Miss., the final journey is likely to be marked by more sorrow, turmoil and slaughter.

The most significant change is that President Kennedy has plunged into the midst of the U.S. civil rights war. Previously a mild advocate, he now has become a full crusader in support of the Negro's drive for equal treatment in education, employment and housing. The conscience-grawling portrait of police dogs tearing at Negroes or the streets of Birmingham, Ala., appears to have left its mark.

And perhaps more astonishing is the opinion of some Negro leaders that Kennedy will carry an effective majority of the U.S. Congress with him. The president will ask Congress to put into law the right of all Americans — no matter what color — to service in public facilities, such as hotels, restaurants, retail stores and theatres. That would make segregation a crime.

He also will ask for laws to strengthen the government's support of the Negro's claim in court on behalf of an end to segregated schools.

The Negro must be satisfied or the white man will witness passions that could tear the American spirit apart.

The weapons of filibuster and delay, available to the southern congressman, may prove to be

'Vermin, Filth In Prisons'

OTTAWA (CP)—Teeming vermin, dirt and gross overcrowding have been cited by inquiry commissions as contributing factors in Canadian penitentiary riots in the last 18 months.

A summary of the commissions' findings, tabled in the Commons Wednesday by Justice Minister Chevrier at the request of Harold Winch (NDP—Vancouver East), outlines steps being taken to remedy some of the conditions about which prisoners and prison officers complained.

Three riots — two at St. Vincent de Paul outside Montreal and one at British Columbia Penitentiary at New Westminster — were reported on by the commissions. In a May 2 incident at Montreal prison officer Raymond Teller and one prisoner were killed.

The summary says "a chain of grievances" sparked the June 17, 1963, riot at St. Vincent de Paul. Twelve separate complaints by prisoners and guards are listed including "depressive, dirty, outmoded" buildings, "teeming vermin, rats, roaches, bedbugs in the washrooms" and "overlong" confinement "in outmoded, old and dirty cells."

In a statement, Mr. Winch said "the absolutely amazing disclosures indict all previous governments for failure to deal with heathenish conditions drawn attention to as far back as 1838."

"They are also guilty of having poured millions of dollars of taxpayers money down the drain by permitting conditions which made it absolutely impossible to rehabilitate the inmates although piously stating all that time that that was the purpose of incarceration and not revenge for breaking the laws."

Not Even Fumigation

Mr. Winch said he finds it hard to understand that in reporting on "what are termed remedial measures there was not even any mention of fumigation or other measures taken to get rid of vermin."

"It is obvious that at the earliest opportunity a very full discussion will have to take place in the House and most positive assurance be obtained from the government that there is going to be action and not mere words or window-dressing."

Of the April 19-20 disturbance at the B.C. Penitentiary, the summary says a frustrated escape attempt by three dangerous prisoners touched off demonstrations a few hours later by 200 or 300 prisoners in support of the would-be escapees who were holding a guard hostage.

"The rioting inmates had no real grievances and the eruption was spontaneous," the summary said. It added that the inquiry commission found that the prison staff handled the situation creditably, insufficient time was allowed for training new staff, the poorly-designed prison auditorium creates a security hazard, prisoner discipline was not altogether satisfactory and there are deficiencies in custodial equipment.

The summary says the commission also found the "B.C. Penitentiary is grossly overcrowded and has insufficient segregation accommodation available for difficult inmates. In fact over 80 inmates are accommodated inside the walls in dormitories and another group is forced to sleep in the cell corridors."

"... There would have been no disturbance had there been no overcrowding."

Deportation To Avert Jail Term

NANAIMO — A deportation order will save an English woman from serving the 18-month sentence she received for fraud Wednesday in magistrate's court.

Court was informed a deportation order is expected from Ottawa on Mrs. Audrey Sheffield, who pleaded guilty to 20 charges of fraud involving worthless cheques.

IN OTHER PARTS

Magistrate Lionel Bevoir Potts said he had received reports of similar offences in other parts of Canada.

Nanaimo lawyer John Morton said the woman had been under severe emotional strain and the cheques had been for small amounts.

The magistrate said Mrs. Sheffield was apparently suffering from anxiety neurosis but added the sentence was necessary to protect the public.

Prospect Lake residents will start soon on their new $10,000 community hall, but more money and some volunteer labor is needed to complete the project.

The community association has raised $3,800 through various activities but will have to canvass the area again once work has actually started on the building.

A committee has been set to form an RCN Automobile Club, which will be open to service and civilian personnel at RCN ship and shore establishments.

Discussions at a meeting Friday will include the forming of the club, areas where vehicles can be serviced and checked under expert supervision, and supplies for a tool crib for use by members.

Club will promote safe driving, prevent accidents, and encourage maintenance of vehicles in safe condition.

Pointless, Harmful

Africa Aid Error Admitted by Bonn

BONN (Reuters)—The West German government disclosed Wednesday that it has been giving secret military aid to seven African countries. It also admitted that the veil of secrecy was "completely pointless" and had harmed West Germany.

Chief government spokesman Guenther von Hase named five of the countries at a press conference as Nigeria, Sudan, Somalia, Guinea, and Madagascar. He refused to name the other two, saying they are getting military help but formal agreements have not yet been signed.

Existence of these secret agreements became public knowledge only last week. There was a press and political

Slow Signs

Delta Police Surrender

DELTA (CP)—Police here have surrendered.

They will not give any more tickets to motorists who do not observe the controversial slow signs on key intersections on the Tsawwassen highway.

Chief Mervyn Smith said Wednesday they could if they wanted to—despite statements to the contrary by Highways Minister Gagliardi—but they won't.

"The law says we can enforce them. They were erected initially to protect dangerous intersections. But we are not going to oppose the attorney-general."

It started some time ago when police set up a radar trap to catch motorists who did not slow down at an intersection which had a sign saying "slow to 30." The speed limit on the highway is 50 miles an hour. Motorists off Vancouver Island ferries were caught and charged.

Attorney-General Bonner said motorists could not be charged with speeding because of those signs and ordered fines returned to those drivers who were convicted.

The signs were removed, then put back again by the highways department, which said they cannot be enforced. Mr. Gagliardi called them "courtesy signs."

Said Chief Smith: "There is a section in the Highway Act that says we can enforce them and it is still there. But because of the Victoria ruling quashing the tickets we are not going to oppose the attorney-general."

Lock-In Washes Out Moments of Justice

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—A balky doorknob in the ladies room interrupted a session in superior court Tuesday.

Judge William Mackenzie suddenly halted proceedings and sent a deputy sheriff to the source of the hammering that echoed through the courthouse. The first report was that a carpenter was at work.

When the hammering continued another deputy was sent to the scene.

With a little hesitancy he turned the knob on the ladies room door. A red-faced woman probation counselor emerged.

She had been locked in for 15 minutes and hammered on the door with the heel of a shoe.

'Vermin, Filth In Prisons'

OTTAWA (CP)—Teeming vermin, dirt and gross over-crowding have been cited by inquiry commissions as contributing factors in Canadian penitentiary riots in the last 18 months.

A summary of the commissions' findings, tabled in the Commons Wednesday by Justice Minister Chevrier at the request of Harold Winch (NDP—Vancouver East), outlines steps being taken to remedy some of the conditions about which prisoners and prison officers complained.

Three riots — two at St. Vincent de Paul outside Montreal and one at British Columbia Penitentiary at New Westminster — were reported on by the commissions. In a May 2 incident at Montreal prison officer Raymond Teller and one prisoner were killed.

The summary says "a chain of grievances" sparked the June 17, 1963, riot at St. Vincent de Paul. Twelve separate complaints by prisoners and guards are listed including "depressive, dirty, outmoded" buildings, "teeming vermin, rats, roaches, bedbugs in the thousands" and "overlong" confinement "in outmoded, old and dirty cells."

In a statement, Mr. Winch said "the absolutely amazing disclosures indict all previous governments for failure to deal with heathenish conditions drawn attention to as far back as 1938."

"They are also guilty of having poured millions of dollars of taxpayers money down the drain by permitting conditions which made it absolutely impossible to rehabilitate the inmates although piously stating all that time that that was the purpose of incarceration and not revenge for breaking the laws."

Not Even Fumigation

Mr. Winch said he finds it hard to understand that in reporting on "what are termed remedial measures there was not even any mention of fumigation or other measures taken to get rid of vermin."

"It is obvious that at the earliest opportunity a very full discussion will have to take place in the House and most positive assurance be obtained from the government that there is going to be action and not mere words or window-dressing."

Of the April 19-20 disturbance at the B.C. Penitentiary, the summary says a frustrated escape attempt by three dangerous prisoners touched off demonstrations a few hours later by 200 or 300 prisoners in support of the would-be escapees who were holding a guard hostage.

"The rioting inmates had no

real grievances and the eruption was spontaneous," the summary said. It added that the inquiry commission found that the prison staff handled the situation creditably, insufficient time was allowed for training new staff, the poorly designed prison auditorium creates a security hazard, prisoner discipline was not altogether satisfactory and there are deficiencies in custodial equipment.

The summary says the commission also found the "B.C. Penitentiary is grossly overcrowded and has insufficient segregation accommodation available for difficult inmates. In fact over 80 inmates are accommodated inside the walls in dormitories and another group is forced to sleep in the cell corridors."

"... There would have been no disturbance had there been no overcrowding."

Unity in Smoke War Needed for Success

A smoke nuisance complaint by a View Royal resident pointed out the need for all municipalities to co-operate in combating the annoyance, Aid. Geoffrey Edgewood, chairman of the Victoria smoke abatement committee, said last night.

The View Royal resident said he had painted his verandah last week. "Next morning it was covered with fine ash sticking to the fresh paint. It was a mess."

Aid. Edgewood said he would call the Plumber Bay mill and see if they wanted help in improving the situation.

Deportation To Avert Jail Term

NANAIMO—A deportation order will save an English woman from serving the 18-month sentence she received for fraud Wednesday in magistrate's court.

Court was informed a deportation order is expected from Ottawa on Mrs. Audrey Sheffield, who pleaded guilty to 20 charges of fraud involving worthless cheques.

IN OTHER PARTS
Magistrate Lionel Beever-Potts said he had received reports of similar offences in other parts of Canada.

Nanaimo lawyer John Morton said the woman had been under severe emotional strain and the cheques had been for small amounts.

The magistrate said Mrs. Sheffield was apparently suffering from anxiety neurosis but added the sentence was necessary to protect the public.

Prospect Lake residents will start soon on their new $10,000 community hall, but more money and some volunteer labor is needed to complete the project.

The community association has raised $3,800 through various activities but will have to canvass the area again once work has actually started on the building.

A committee has been set to form an RCN Automobile Club, which will be open to service and civilian personnel at RCN ship and shore establishments.

Discussions at a meeting Friday will include the forming of the club, areas where vehicles can be serviced and checked under expert supervision, and supplies for a tool crib for use by members.

Club will promote safe driving, prevent accidents, and encourage maintenance of vehicles in safe condition.

Schoolmates Accept Alabama Negroes

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP)—Two happy Negro students went peacefully to class at the University of Alabama Wednesday and found friendly acceptance from many white schoolmates.

But there was still a grim note of unreality on the campus as armed National Guardsmen kept watch on the Negroes' living quarters and U.S. marshals followed the two students at a discreet distance.

SOME HISSED

One group of white students clustered in front of campus buildings hissed as 20-year-old James A. Hood walked past, but paid little attention to his hurried movements.

Vivian Malone, the other Negro admitted to the formerly all-white university under National Guard escort Tuesday in the wake of state Governor George Wallace's defiant stand against integration, received warm greetings from some classmates, silence from others.

FIRST CLASS

Two white girls fell in step alongside the 20-year-old Negro co-ed and chatted with her as she walked to her first class.

Under orders from Wallace, state troopers and other state forces numbering nearly 700 began pulling out Wednesday.

Wallace sent a telegram to President Kennedy saying that since the federal government had "assumed full responsibility for the presence of Negro students and for preserving peace and order," all the state forces would be gone by Sunday. Some 1,200 federalized Alabama Guardsmen are on duty here.

Today the scene shifts to the university extension branch at Huntsville, where Dave Mack McGlathery, 26-year-old Negro mathematician, is to be enrolled, probably quietly.

Sources close to Wallace said he had no plans to make a second doorway stand there.

Bad News for Bangu

When Wolverhampton Wanderers started what they considered a rebuilding season in the English Football League's first division this year, much of their hope lay with Ted Farmer.

Farmer didn't disappoint them. In the first 11 games Farmer scored 10 goals, and the Wolves were off and running with nine wins and two draws. Then, sighs manager Stan Cullis, "Ted broke his ankle. We went into a tailspin."

HURTS BACK

Just when Farmer appeared ready to play again he injured his back in practice. In all he missed three months of the season, and while he was gone Wolves could do little right although they finished a respectable fifth in the first division.

Now Farmer is fit again, and that could be bad news for Bangu, Vancouver and Victoria all-stars, who all play the touring Wanderers. Bangu of Brazil meets them Saturday in Vancouver's Empire Stadium.

Wanderers come to Victoria against the all-stars Monday, and play Vancouver all-stars at Vancouver June 19.

Wanderers are a young team, with five regulars 19 or under and two others 21. Two of them, Robert Thomson and Alan Hinton, stayed home to play for the all-England under-23 side, but their absence apparently hasn't hurt Wolves on their tour to date.

Wolves have played six games, won them all while scoring 26 goals and giving up only five. The match they termed their hardest, against the Mexican Select team in San Francisco, they won 3-0.

WELL SCOUTED
Saturday's match will be the first one for Wolves against Bangu, but they go into it with a thorough scouting report on the Brazilian side. It was given them by Kilmarnock of the Scottish League, which played Bangu twice and lost both times.

Nor are Wanderers taking any chances on underestimating the mainland all-stars.

When all-stars played an exhibition game against a select team from the Mainland League last night, Wolves were in the stands watching.

net rated a future great in English football in goalkeeper Fred Davies. Tour manager George Anderson of Winnipeg, secretary of the Canadian Soccer Football Association, enthusiastically rates him "one of the best I've ever seen, sure to become England's international keeper."

Another to watch is Chris Crowe, an English international who was obtained from Blackburn Rovers in 1960 for a reported $50,000. He plays either inside or centre-forward.

TEAM ROSTER

Complete roster of the touring team is as follows:
Davies, George Showell, Gerry Harris, Fred Goodwin, David Woodfield, John Kirkham, Crowe, Jimmy Murray, Farmer, Peter Broadbent, Terry Wharton, Malcolm Finlayson, John Harris, Barry Stobart, K. Knighton, F. Knowles, J. Galloway.

Wing-half Ron Flowers has also missed the trip. He has been chosen to play for England on tour.

Financial Risk Too Great

Nobody Wants Mann Cup Final

VANCOUVER (Special)—The Mann Cup, symbol of Canada's senior lacrosse championship since 1910, is being tossed between east and west like a hot rock today because neither side wants to promote a series all too certain to be a financial failure.

Ontario Lacrosse Association officials have flatly refused to stage this year's Canadian final despite a ruling by the Canadian Lacrosse Association. Western officials want no part of it either.

"It's ridiculous, and it's not good for the game," CLA president Merv Ferguson said here last night. "We've got to get this straightened out, and quickly. How can you sell a series to the fans when you can't even sell it to the teams?"

Ferguson was commenting on reports from the east quoting CLA secretary Gerry Johnston as saying the CLA has definitely decided to stage the final in the west, "whether the west likes it or not." The report also said the east will be allowed to pick as many as five extra players for the final.

IT'S WRONG
"I don't know where that information came from, but it's wrong," Ferguson said. "The CLA has decided it will be played in eastern Canada and there has been no meeting to even discuss changing the site."

I imagine this was merely a suggestion from the OLA, and somebody mistakenly took it for a CLA ruling. The east has some ideas of changing it they can be submitted to us, but as of now the Mann Cup final will be played in the home of the OLA winner."

SAD SITUATION

It's a sad situation for a series that used to be played before packed houses as it alternated from east to west.

In recent years the calibre of lacrosse in the east has dropped, and attendance dropped with it. The Mann Cup series was held last year in Ontario and lost money, and the OLA is not about to take the chance again.

On the other hand, the western teams feel the series wouldn't draw on their home floor because westerners are used to seeing better lacrosse and wouldn't attend anything as one-sided as the series have been the last few years.

In fact, one report has it that mainland teams are hoping there will be no final at all this year. If that happens, the rumor says, the two top teams will play an exhibition series in California—a prospect much more lucrative than flogging the dead horse the Mann Cup series has become.

I was wending my weary way home from a tournament the other evening when I saw a sight that made me slow down, stop, switch off, get out and stand in silent awe. For there, coming up the 15th fairway, was the nearest thing I have ever seen to a galleon on a golf course.

Arthur D'Arcy Locke, known to Lords and locker-room attendants as Bobby, was 150 yards from the green. He took his stance that defies all principles of golf, swung and put his shot six feet from the stick.

Slowly he proceeded to the green, produced his putter and sank the ball. He acknowledged the gallery's applause with respectful courtesy and moved off to the 16th tee.

"There," I said to myself, "goes the greatest of them all... Palmer, Nicklaus, Cotton, Taylor, the lot."

Statistics, of course, prove that to be quite true. Palmer, perhaps, is more devastating. Snead and Hogan, in the same era, were perhaps even greater tournament players.

But no man since the game began or for a thousand years to come will have the same superb temperament as Bobby Locke, four times winner of the British Open.

I say this in all seriousness: with Locke's temperament I should have won the British Open six times instead of once. He is unshakable.

For no other golfer on earth would I have stopped my car on the way home from a tournament just to watch him play out a hole. It was a poignant moment for it was wonderful to see this South African beat Britain's fairways.

Hurt in Crossing Crash

Bobby was seriously injured in a car crash in South Africa in February, 1960. He was hit by a train as he passed a level crossing and for several days doctors despaired for his life. He was temporarily paralyzed, had fractured his skull and permanently damaged the muscles of his left eye.

When Ben Hogan came back after a serious accident he was hailed as a hero and Hollywood even made a film about it. It is typical that Bobby Locke simply slipped into Britain and took up tournament play again without so much as a solitary interview with the press.

You will gather that I am a fan of his. This may seem strange as he is six months younger than I am. But from the moment I first met him, just before the war, I have been under his spell.

Just after the war we were destined to meet in the second round of an Egyptian tournament at the Country Club just outside Alexandria. It was one of those days when I could hardly make a mistake and Bobby, for once, was below his best form.

I don't deny that at that stage of my career I wasn't above indulging in a little gamesmanship. I tried with every tactic I could think of to needle him. I even arrived at the point when I was being deliberately rude to him on the tees. Bobby took it all with a smile. He read me like a book.

With half a dozen holes to go I was two up and strolling into the next round. With four holes to go we were all square. That was the end of me. Bobby, still smiling benignly, left me for dead and went on to win.

I have never tried those needling tactics since. I more than met my match.

Every Shot Challenges

Locke has a genius for total concentration. It is something from which we can all learn. Every single shot to him is a separate challenge. He forgets his last shot, good or bad though it might have been, the moment he has hit it.

Perhaps I sound like a schoolboy ranting about his idol. I make no excuses. I feared that we should never again see him in action on the British circuit. But back he came last month—a couple of stones lighter, wearing thin gold-rimmed spectacles to improve his sight, as charming and dignified as ever.

These days he is taking it easy. He does not play in every tournament, he no longer makes the Sunday afternoon appearances that raised thousands of pounds for charity. These days he is a gentleman golfer.

But my colleagues and I aren't kidding. I believe that Bobby Locke is making a comeback equally as courageous as that of Ben Hogan. The only difference is that for Locke the trumpets don't sound. He's too modest a man.

But right now I give you a tip. Bobby Locke, the so-called fallen idol, will probably find himself a 23-1 outsider when the bookies announce their odds for the British Open this year.

Take a tip from someone who knows a golfing giant when he sees one. Bobby Locke, the man who actually came back from the point of no return, is worth backing at such an insulting price.

He is fitter now than I have seen him at any time since his accident. And, in the mood, the old maestro could still scare the young generation out of their wits.

After missing six games with back injury, Whitey Severon will rejoin Victoria Shamrock's for tonight's Inter-City Lacrosse League game in New Westminster. Teams play here tomorrow night.

Bruce Kidd May Quit

TORONTO (CP)—Bruce Kidd, Canada's international track star, says there is a chance his bothersome heel ailment might not clear up, ending his brilliant career at the age of 19.

He re-injured his heel in the Compton, Calif., relays Friday when he finished third in the 5,000-metre run to New Zealand's Murray Halberg. He announced Monday he would be out of competition for at least a month.

Bangu Beats Toronto, 1-0

TORONTO (CP)—The touring Bangu team from Brazil scored a goal early in the first half and hung on to take a 1-0 victory Wednesday night over an all-star team composed of players from Toronto City and Toronto Roma of the Eastern Canada Professional Soccer League. A crowd of 4,847 watched.

FAN FARE

Big Title Fight

Tiger Welcomed Home
NEW YORK (AP)—In the purple twilight of a steaming July day, Dick Tiger will defend his world middleweight boxing title in a Nigerian boxer stadium.

They have picked a 7 p.m. starting time for this July 13 match in hopes of avoiding undue confusion and massive traffic jams in the dark.

A modern highway runs from Ibadan some 80 miles south to Lagos, the capital, but it is a two-lane road. If 50,000 or 60,000 turn up for the fight against ex-champ Gene Fullmer, a few fenders will be scraped on the way home.

Jersey Jones, the New York manager of Tiger, says the government is underwriting the title fight with about $280,000, guaranteeing promoter Jack Solomons of London that there will be no loss.

Jersey says Tiger is getting a $100,000 guarantee and Fullmer, his opponent for the third time, is getting $50,000 plus $10,000 in expense money.

The rest presumably will go for costs of the promotion and profits, if any.

It will be a royal homecoming for Tiger, born Dick Iketu, on a farm in Amaibog, Nigeria, Aug. 14, 1929. He left the farm for the city of Abuja, to work for his brother John as a delivery boy.

When he started doing a little boxing on the side he had to leave his native land.

"To make any money I had to go to London," explained Tiger, who is doing light training for the July 13 fight in a New York gym.

When Tiger came home after winning the title from Fullmer last Oct. 23, he was a proud and happy man. He was received by every minister of state and given every honor Nigeria has to offer.

There never has been a title fight in Nigeria, which gained independence from Britain on Oct. 1, 1960. In fact the only championship bouts in Africa were held in Johannesburg in the days when Vic Towell wasbantamweight champion.

Uplands, Gorge Neck and Neck

Uplands fought off another challenge from Gorge Vale in the Inter-Club Golf League last night, but the biggest test of the schedule comes next Wednesday in the battle for the Willie Park Driver.

Uplands visited Colwood and won, 6-3, last night. Meanwhile, Gorge stayed one point off the pace by beating Victoria by the same score at Gorge Vale, Wednesday comes Gorge team took the four-ball point, one up.

Art Donaldson of Gorge beat Laurie Carroll, 2 and 1, but Gorge Bigelow came back for Victoria with a 4 and 3 win over Dave Ewart. Donaldson and Ewart took the four-ball, 2 and 1. Victoria's Cliff Horwood beat Dave Panthorpe, one up, and Vince Wheatley downed Ian Ogle of Victoria, 4 and 3, with Wheatley and Panthorpe winning the team point.

ANDREWS SHARP
At Colwood, Porky Andrews shot a 68 and needed only 24 putts to dispose of Uplands' Bob Hunt, 6 and 5. Eric Hillebrand of Uplands downed Bill Garner 5 and 4, but Garner and Andrews won the four-ball, 3 and 1.

Gary Smith beat Mike Kolb, 3 and 2, for Uplands, and won the four-ball with Gerd Fellow although Kerr beat Fellow, two up. Joe Evans of Colwood beat Frank Scroggs, 2 and 1. Eric Wright of Uplands took Vic Painter, 4 and 3, and Scroggs and Wright took the team points 3 and 1. The four of them had a best-ball of 61.

Wills, McCovey Hitting Heroes

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Maury Wills, who has made 16 hits in his last 23 at-bats, slammed three singles and a double and scored three runs Wednesday night as Los Angeles Dodgers regained the National League lead by defeating Houston Colts 9-1.

The victory moved the Dodgers two percentage points ahead of the St. Louis Cardinals, who lost 6-2 to Philadelphia.

At San Francisco Willie McCovey blasted two homers, driving in all the Giants' runs as San Francisco whipped Chicago Cubs 3-1 behind the four-hit pitching of lanky Bob Bolin.

The victory left the Giants in a tie with St. Louis Cardinals for second place, just two percentage points behind the Dodgers.

Philadelphia Phillies staged two three-run outbursts in a continued jinx over the Cardinals to defeat them 6-2. In other NL games, Milwaukee Braves blanked New York Mets 9-0 and Cincinnati Reds shut out Pittsburgh Pirates 3-0.

In the American League, Roger Maris' single drove across the winning run as New York Yankees edged Baltimore Orioles 3-2 in a 10-inning duel. With the Orioles' infield

Thomas with a pitch after Lew Wagner's two-run homer in the eighth dropped the White Sox behind the first-place Yankees.

Turley struck out seven, including Dave Nicholson four times, walked four and hit a batter.

In the opener, Bushardt, notching his seventh victory against two setbacks, was touched for a run in the second inning on Chuck Dees' leadoff double and Felix Torres' single, giving Los Angeles a 1-0 lead.

BROKEN ARM
At Detroit the Indians survived three early home runs by the Tigers and scored a come-from-behind victory. But they lost outstanding rookie Vic Devalillo with a broken arm.

Devalillo suffered the broken arm in the first inning when he was hit by a pitch by Hank Aguirre. The Indians' rookie will be lost for at least four weeks.

At Chicago, Bob Turley hurled a one-hitter for his 100th major league victory as Los Angeles won 5-0 and tumbled the White Sox out of the American League lead in the second game of a two-night doubleheader. The White Sox won the opener 3-1 behind John Bushardt's three-hitter.

In other AL games, Cleveland Indians whipped Detroit Tigers 12-6, Boston Red Sox defeated Washington Senators 5-3 and Minnesota Twins and Kansas City Athletics split a two-night doubleheader. The Athletics won the opener 12-4 and the Twins won the second 8-1.

McCovey, whose three-run homer beat Los Angeles on Tuesday night, slammed one over the fence in the first against Bob Buhl of the Cubs and crashed a solo when he felled him in the third.

MOST STRIKEOUTS
Bolin, usually a reliever, started his second game of the season and struck out 14 Cubs, the most strikeouts for a Giant hurler this year.

Bobby Richardson started the Yankee 10th when he reached base on Brooks Robinson's error at third. He was sacrificed to second, and after a walk to Estlin Howard, Maris connected off being reliever Stu Miller. The winner was reliever Marshall Bridges 1-0.

Pete Ward's clean single to centre in the sixth inning broke up Turley's no-hit bid in the game at Chicago.

THE Arnold PALMER METHOD

FACTORS DETERMINING YOUR SWING PLANE

The plane on which a golfer swings is determined largely by his build, the distance he stands from the ball, and the particular club he is swinging.

Under normal circumstances a player should swing on a flatter plane with a wood club (illustration #1) than with an iron (illustration #2) because with the longer wood he must stand farther from the ball.

A heavy person should stand farther from the ball than someone of slim build so that his hands and arms do not contact his body in the hitting area. Thus, such a golfer (illustration #3) would swing on a comparatively flat plane.

If you feel you are not getting sufficient distance or consistency on your shots, I suggest you consult a professional and ask him to see if your swing plane is correct for a person of your build.

Women's Golf Semi-Finals Victoria-Vancouver Affair

Two golfers from Vancouver and two from Victoria survived B.C. Women's Close quarter-finals at Royal Colwood Golf and Country Club Wednesday.

Defending champion Gayle Hitchens, 19, of North Vancouver Capilano is one of the final four. Others are Colleen Smith of Vancouver Point Grey, Mrs. Joan Lawson of Victoria's Uplands Club and Mrs. Shirley Naysmith of Victoria's Gorge Vale Club.

Miss Hitchens plays Mrs. Naysmith and Mrs. Lawson plays Miss Smith in semi-finals starting at 10 this morning.

Only one of the four quarter-final matches could be called close. Mrs. Naysmith was 1 down to Mrs. Gertie Beaton of Vancouver after nine holes but rallied to win 2 up on the 18th green.

LOCAL LOSERS
Miss Hitchens defeated local favorite Mrs. Margaret Todd of Victoria Golf Club, 5 and 3; Mrs. Lawson turned back Mrs. Maureen Hibberd of Uplands, 5 and 4 and Miss Smith defeated Mrs. Anita Patrick, Vancouver, 5 and 4.

Mrs. Naysmith, who expressed dissatisfaction with her fairway shots in Wednesday's round, played steady golf for her victory over Mrs. Beaton. One down after the ninth hole, as stated, she tied the match on the 10th but didn't go ahead until the 16th when her opponent got into trouble and conceded a par putt.

The 17th was halved on par then Mrs. Beaton found the trap on 18 while Mrs. Naysmith got down with a safe par for the win.

Mrs. Lawson, who incidentally lost to Miss Smith in the B.C. final at Gorge Vale in 1956, took a strong early lead over Mrs. Hibberd and made the turn 5 up.

Mrs. Hibberd, who started one and all Tuesday by sidelining medalist Barbara Renwick of Vancouver, didn't have the same magic with her short irons Wednesday. She rallied briefly on the back nine, winning the 11th with a birdie but Mrs. Lawson won the 14th to close out the match.

Miss Hitchens, playing her first tournament at Royal Colwood, won the first, third, fifth, eighth and ninth holes for a healthy lead over Mrs. Todd. Victoria champion Mrs. Todd was beached by a bad slice on occasion, came back briefly after the first nine to halve the 12th and 13th, won the 14th but bowed out on the 15th to Miss Hitchens' par.

Miss Smith, an accountant for a Vancouver manufacturer, also had her match under control on the first nine, holding a four-up lead as she and Mrs. Patrick made the turn. She was six up after 12, lost the 13th then halved the 14th to walk off a winner.

HARMONY, N.J. (AP) — A one-armed golfer shot a hole-in-one on the par-three 185-yard 11th hole at Harrier's Hollow Golf Club Tuesday.

"I was so surprised I sat right down," said Thomas Russell, 42, of Branchville. Russell lost his right arm in a bulldozer accident five years ago. He was right-handed.

Ex-Leaf Holds Strong Views

Drillon Takes Hockey on TV

By FRANK SULLIVAN

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP) — Perhaps no one enjoys hockey on television more than Gordie Drillon.

Yet the man who provided as many thrills for hockey fans as any present-day NHL star never performed before a TV camera when he was at his peak.

That was when he played on a Toronto Maple Leafs forward line with Hall-of-Famer Syl Apps and Bob Davidson. Those were the days when sports writers wanted to know how he felt when he was presented with the National Hockey League's Lady Byng trophy for the player best combining sportsmanship and playing ability.

In the same season, 1937-38, Drillon won the Art Ross trophy as the league's leading scorer. For that season, and the following one, he was named to the NHL All-Star first team.

He appears to have mellowed since his NHL days as a muscular 200-pound right-winger with a deadly scoring shot.

ENJOYS CURLING

He's been quoted as saying he would like just once more to hear the crowd cheering for him. Curling might be a means to that. He would like some day to play on a Canadian curling championship rink.

Drillon, before taking his present job with a local gas company, spent several years as supervisor at the Boys' Industrial Farm here.

That led to his disapproval of newspaper publicity for children in sports — the little leaguers. He said sports writers should make more of the youngsters from age 15 on. Money spent on little league sports could better be spent on organizing sports activities for ages 18-19. Boys in these "wonderful" years at the industrial home knew little about sports. "Probably, if they had known more about sports, they wouldn't have been there in the first place."

RIGHT ATTITUDE

Drillon, who has been a playing-coach with hockey teams in the Maritimes since his retirement from the NHL, says that "us fellows who played sport are the wrong ones to coach sport." An ex-professional might be inclined to emphasize "win" rather than sportsmanship, to favor the more skillful players, rather than the less proficient ones who play for enjoyment.

He has often been a guest speaker at father and son sports banquets, but he thinks that athletes playing now — rather than "stars" of yesterday — should perform these functions. After signing nearly 800 autographs at one such function he heard one boy ask another: "Who's that guy?" When the other boy replied, "That's Gordie Drillon," the first boy asked "What did he do?" And the second boy said: "I don't know, but my father does."

QUIT SOFTBALL

For years Drillon was a star softball player in the summers in the Maritimes and Ontario, but he quit softball about a year ago. Apart from curling, his most active effort now is in the city curling league.

Until recently he spent most of his working time travelling for the gas company, but now he does service and public relations work for the firm and has more time at home. Sports old-timers and some present-day sports figures like to drop in for a chat or to watch television sports.

"I'll be glad when the day comes that you can get a game hockey or baseball — every night on television or radio," said the native of Moncton.

Local Players On Cricket Tour

TORONTO (CP) — The 14-member Canadian Cricket Association Colts team, to play a series of 21 matches in England in July, will leave here by air for London June 21.

The team opens the series July 4 and plays its final match July 20. The big game on the tour will be a match July 12 against a South African team touring England at the same time. Site for the match has not been selected but attempts are being made to have it played at the famous Lords Cricket Ground.

The Canadian team also meets colt competition from various English schools and cricket clubs. In cricket the term "colt" is used to designate players between the ages of 16 and 21.

The tour is part of a Canadian Cricket Association program aimed at developing cricket talent in Canada. A Canadian team tours England every second year. In 1961 the Canadian team compiled its best record by winning five games, losing five and drawing seven.

Ask Duke Snider

Over the Fence
Not Always Homer

NEW YORK (AP)—Duke Snider, New York Mets' veteran outfielder who needs one more home run to reach the magic career figure of 400, was an interested listener as former baseball player Ralph Kiner, now a Mets' broadcaster, was telling of the time Snider hit a home run but was not credited with it.

"It was a number of years ago when I was with the Chicago Cubs and Duke was with the Brooklyn Dodgers," said Kiner. "Duke hit one over my head into the leftfield stands. The ball struck a spectator in the stomach and fell back onto the field. I threw the ball back to the infield and the umpire at third base ruled it a double. He claimed the ball hit the railing on top of the wall."

Snider said: "I also remember a couple of others I lost the same way. I hit a home run in Ebbets Field a number of years ago and didn't get it. The ball struck a spectator in the left-field stands and bounced back. Just as it did in Chicago. That umpire, too, said the ball hit the top of the wall."

"I hit a home run off Bobby Shantz in Pittsburgh last year. This one, too, bounced back onto the field and I'll be darned if the umpire didn't claim the ball hit the railing. When I went out to the outfield at the end of the inning, a fan called me over and swore the ball hit him in the chest and bounced back on the field," said Snider.

Cart Spill
Hurts Pro

YORK, Pa. (AP)—Dick Mullin, professional golfer from Hagerstown, Md., is reported resting comfortably in hospital, where he was admitted Tuesday with injuries he suffered in a golf cart accident.

Mullin, 34, suffered a fractured vertebra and cuts and bruises when a power cart he was riding overturned and rolled over him at the 16th hole of the York Country Club golf course.

He lost control of the cart while driving it up a hill to the 16th green. Mullin was pinned beneath the vehicle until two companions freed him.

Canadiens Offer Pilous Job

MONTREAL (CP)—Frank J. Selke, managing director of Montreal Canadiens, said recently "If Rudy Pilous wants a job with us, he can have it."

He said Pilous, fired last month as coach of Chicago Black Hawks, has been a close friend for many years. He said he recommended Pilous to the Black Hawks management when he was hired.

Selke said if Pilous asked for a job, it would be with one of Canadiens' farm teams.

Pilous also talked with Toronto Maple Leafs about a job and there is speculation the Leafs have offered him the position of manager-coach of their new Denver farm club in the Western Hockey League.

Sport columnist Elmer Ferguson of the Montreal Star quoted Pilous as saying: "To tell the truth, in the past season I got no backing whatever from the top, and was the victim of a stiletto job."

Pilous was quoted as saying a stronger management would have told the Black Hawks players, dissatisfied with their coach in the latter part of the season, they had to play hockey or take salary cuts.

Jim Norris, owner of the Hawks, was quoted as saying in reply: "When players get disorganized and disgruntled because they don't get on with the coach, what can you do?"

"Fire all the players? Instead, however disagreeable, you get another coach."

It's Voting Time
For All-Star Clubs

CINCINNATI (AP)—Coaches and managers of big league teams will be polled during the week of June 21-27 to pick the starting players for the single 1963 all-star baseball game to be played July 9 at Cleveland.

Commissioner Ford Frick sent a notice to all clubs reminding them that a representative of his office soon would be visiting their teams to take the vote.

The vote will determine the starting team except for pitchers. Manager Ralph Houk of the American League and manager Alvin Dark of the National League will pick the pitchers and the remainder of the team at a later date. Each squad will have 25 players.

The majors are reverting to the original plan of only one all-star game this year after playing two games a year for the last four years.

The starters, selected by players, coaches and managers who may not vote for men on their own club, must play the first three innings unless injured. That does not hold true for pitchers who can pitch no more than three innings unless it is an extra inning game.

Frick's office will release the names of the starters June 27. The remainder of the squads will be announced the following week.

'The Moose' Picked
To Win U.S. Open

HARRISON, N.Y. (AP)—It took a thief and a dozen shots of cortisone to put him back into the old golf groove, but at 43 big Julius Boros has developed into the hottest item on the professional tour.

With the $100,000 Thunderbird classic starting here Thursday and the 63rd U.S. Open championship following next week in Brookline, Mass., the rugged, relaxed pro from Mid-Planet, N.C., has stolen much of the attention from the game's inevitable big three—Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus and Gary Player.

SHOULD WIN

"If Jules doesn't win the Open this year it will be because somebody cheated," says Jack Burke, former PGA and Masters champion.

The moose, as the pros affectionately refer to him, credits his new golfing spurt—his finest showing since he dethroned Ben Hogan in the Open at Dallas in 1952 and later won the world crown at Tam O'Shanter—to a couple of factors.

"Some thief stole my favorite putter out of the car at the Masters this spring," Boros explained. "I would like to find him and give him a reward. I dug out an old blade putter and I've been putting like gangbusters ever since."

"Also, I took some cortisone shots for bursitis which had been bothering my shoulders. I feel wonderful and my game just seemed to jell."

Insecticide In Water Kills Three

CARACAS, Venezuela (UPI)

—Three farmhands were reported dead in northwestern Venezuela Wednesday and 36 were seriously ill, apparently as a result of drinking water accidentally contaminated by a chemical insecticide.

The departments of agriculture and health are sending investigators to the town of San Carlos in the northwestern plains to find out exactly what happened.

Meetings Today

● Robert Robinson, winner of the International Award in the annual six-best Washington State Amateur Movie Council Competition, will show a documentary film entitled Birth to Maturity to a meeting of the Kiwanis Club of Victoria, Sa. Beaver, in the Tally-Ho Hotel at 7:30 a.m.

● A tour of B.C. Forest Products Plywood Division will be held by the Kiwanis Club of Oak Bay. Members will meet at the plant at 6 p.m.

● David Collins will speak on Reminiscences of Venezuela at a meeting of the Rotary Club of Victoria in the Empress Hotel at 12:10 p.m.

● The Kinsmen Club of Vic-Van Isle will hold a golf and fellowship meeting at Matticks Farm, Cordova Bay, at 5:30 p.m.

● A luncheon meeting of the Optimist Club of Victoria will be held on the 5th Floor, Yarrow Building at 12:10 p.m.

Variety in Nine Parks

Holiday Playground Plan Starts Soon for 35,000

An estimated 35,000 Victoria school children will enjoy a wide variety of activities in a summer playground program designed to keep them off the street during the holidays.

A staff of more than 30 will be supervising and teaching the youngsters during the seven-week period.

A school for all supervisors will be held during the last week in June.

FREE LIBRARY

Activities planned for the nine parks include a handicraft and hobby program, organized inter-part leagues, tennis, swimming, sandbox modelling, games, tumbling, boxing, a large free library in each park and a fishing derby at the Breakwater.

Playgrounds will open Tuesday, July 2.

SWIM CLASSES

Swimming instructions will start July 9 with classes for boys held every Tuesday and for girls every Friday.

Students taking part in the instructions should bring their own suits, a towel and 25 cents.

Instruction will take place at the Crystal Garden and will start at 9 a.m.

Tennis instructions will be held each Monday at 2 p.m. in Central Park courts and each Wednesday at 2 p.m. in Stadium Park courts.

Instruction is free with all balls supplied, but students are to bring their own racket.

Dates of the fishing derby and the sandbox modelling contest will be announced at a later date.

EACH FRIDAY

Special events will be held at the parks each Friday.

Central Park and Beacon Hill Park will be open from 10:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. daily, epidemic—were reported from and Oaklands, Banfield, Topaz, other parts of England.

Typhoid Cases Increase to 17

HARLOW, England (Reuters) — The number of confirmed typhoid cases in this town near London has risen to 17. Two other cases—believed epidemic—were reported from and Oaklands, Banfield, Topaz, other parts of England.

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unwanted fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if excessive pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly blood disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Inquest Jury Fixes No Blame

The death of Richard Scudder, 84, of Matheson Sunset Lodge, was caused by injuries received as a result of being hit by a car, a coroner's jury ruled in Esquimalt Wednesday. The jury fixed no blame on Raymond Ouellette, 35 Battleford, driver of the taxi that collided with Mr. Scudder. The accident took place at Esquimalt Road and Head Street, May 17. Mr. Scudder was first taken to St. Joseph's Hospital, then transferred to Veteran's Hospital a day later. He was listed in good condition until two days before his death on June 5, the jury was told. The jury heard testimony from three doctor-witnesses and Esquimalt police. Dr. Ross McNeely told the inquest the cause of death was a blood clot from a polyp in a jury which reached the lung. Mr. Scudder had a fractured hip socket and leg as a result of the accident. Police officers who arrived on the scene shortly after the accident testified the taxi driver said, "I never even saw him."

Venture Plan To End

By DON GAIN

The navy's officer training plan at HMCS Venture will end with the graduation of the school's final class at the middle of December, commanding officer Capt. Richard Leir said last night.

But the facilities and staff at Venture will be used to carry out the navy's new training scheme called the Short Service Officer Plan, he said.

PROBE RAFFED

The ratio of instructors to students was criticized by the Glasco royal commission on government organization last January.

Rear-Admiral W. M. Landy, more, flag officer Pacific coast, said at that time "the numbers in Venture have dwindled. The cost per student has risen considerably. Venture is not being used to its full potential."

The navy's stepped-up recruiting program will put 63 officer cadets in the new course at HMCS Venture in September.

MORE ECONOMICAL

"The new plan is more economical," Capt. Leir said. "As a result of improved in-service training, it is considered junior matriculation is sufficient for entry."

In the Venture plan, officer candidates spent their first year earning their senior matriculation.

CREAM SKIMMED OFF

"The cream of the students was skimmed off after the first year, and they went to the three services colleges," Capt. Leir said.

"We now find the in-service training is getting so good we can take a junior matriculation man and have him specialize in mathematics and physics so that he can become proficient in weapons, electronics, radar and allied fields."

Royal Roads Getting New Commandant

Canadian Services College, Royal Roads, will have a new commandant July 17.

He is Capt. William Hayes of Swift Current, Sask., who has served at naval headquarters in Ottawa since September, 1961.

He succeeds Group Capt. Alan Avant who has held the appointment since July, 1960. Group Capt. Avant will become commanding officer of 1 Wing, RCAF Station in Marville, France, July 30.

KINGSTON COLLEGE

Capt. Hayes entered the navy in 1939 after graduation from Royal Military College, Kingston.

He served in ships of the Royal Navy during the Second World War, then was appointed to the Canadian destroyer Iroquois. In postwar years he served on the destroyer Nootka and the aircraft carrier Magnificent as well as in shore appointments.

KOREAN TOUR

He commanded the destroyer Cayuga on a tour of duty in the Korean War. In January, 1953, he became executive officer of HMCS Naden, RCN barracks.

Bird Man Stages Incredible Stunts

Story and Picture by JUDGEN HENNE

How would you feel if a huge South American parrot was brought within inches of your face while its keeper tells you cheerfully the bird's specialty is to sever fingers at the first joint?

You might feel frightened, but it's really quite harmless. That's what Cecil Hyndman says and I had every reason to believe him after he pulled off incredible stunts.

Only Two Blocks

City Facelift Shaved

Victoria's civic beautification committee hopes to see two blocks of downtown stores and businesses repainted this summer using a specially designed color scheme.

All hope of completing an overall design for the entire area has been abandoned for this year, Ald. A. W. Toone, committee chairman, said Wednesday.

"We have decided instead to pick a couple of city blocks and design a color scheme for them. We hope with the co-operation of merchants and businessmen we will have the partial facelift completed this summer," he said.

Rather than make a door-to-door canvass seeking individual support, the city will provide leadership and enlist aid of the Chamber of Commerce and Downtown Business Association.

Ald. Toone said he would contact representatives of both groups immediately to hold a meeting at which the project will be discussed in detail.

This summer's project, he said, would lay the foundation for the full-scale paint-up blitz which has now been set back to the spring of 1964.

"I'm getting a little impatient myself over the delays caused by staff shortage," he said. "However, I'm assured that, with the addition of a new planning assistant next month, the overall design scheme will be completed early next year."

Choice of the blocks to undergo pilot treatment will depend upon character of buildings deemed most suitable by planner Roderick Clark and on the outcome of talks with business groups. The city hall planning staff will have the color scheme ready in about two weeks, making it possible to complete the scheme this summer.

Chamber of Commerce officials earlier this week praised the new color scheme devised by city planners for the Greenwood block, 1008 Government.

Friends Rescue Drowning Girl

A teen-age girl was pulled from under the water of Prospect Lake by a friend last night, went into convulsions and briefly ceased breathing while being taken away by car.

Take Chair Advice In Saanich

Seating accommodation in Saanich council chamber is so inadequate people should take chairs with them, says Brian Hoole of Prospect Lake Community Association.

Association representatives will attend Monday's meeting of council to discuss lake water and sewage problems.

"If you are wise you will take your own chairs, as I do," said Mr. Hoole. "At a recent meeting, a man stood for 3½ hours with no attempt made to find a seat for him."

Tanis Troy, 15, of 963 Sluggert Road, was later reported in good condition in St. Joseph's Hospital.

Miss Troy was pulled from the water by Donald Fairbairn, 16, of 6181 Old West Saanich Road. He later said the girl, not a good swimmer, had swum out beyond her depth and was trying to return when she called for help.

TWO COMPANIONS

She called for Walter Galt, 6120 Central Saanich Road, who, along with Donald Reidie, 17, of 426 Burnside Road West, was swimming with her.

Galt, who was dressed at the time, was unable to reach her with a stick. Fairbairn, who was in his bathing suit, swam out, put his arm around her and pulled her from the water.

AT TOP OF HILL

The incident occurred off the top of Esteline Road about 9 p.m. "She walked up the hill by herself, but then she went unconscious at the top of the hill," Fairbairn said.

The youths rushed her to the Saanich police-fire station in Galt's car. She was in convulsions the whole trip and stopped breathing briefly until they prevented her from choking on her tongue, Fairbairn said.

ALL THE TIME

She was taken to hospital by Saanich fire department ambulance. "We go swimming there all the time," Fairbairn said. Saanich police notified the girl's father who hurried to the hospital.

Report Ready Soon

Land Uses Studied In University Area

Saanich planning department has started its study of the future land use needs in the area around the University of Victoria.

Municipal planner Antony Parr said yesterday he thought the report will be ready in about two months.

He met earlier this week with a university development board official and the university's consulting architect, to establish a basis for the scope of the study.

Mr. Parr said the meeting got him "off to a good start, with recognition by all present of a common interest in overall development."

Coun. Joseph Casey objected strongly to council's authorization for the study to be carried out, on the grounds that previous recommendations of the planner for the area had been rejected by council.

"We just had a report from the planner recommending high-rise and garden apartments in Cadboro Bay and we turned both down," he told council.

"Does somebody hope he will bring in something they will agree with now?" asked Coun. Casey.

Soon the student divers start each day with a three-quarter mile swim over a triangular course in the open waters of Esquimalt harbor.

Within a week they cover the course in 15 to 20 minutes. They learn the safe and proper way to enter the water, from either low or high points. They jump feet first.

They learn safety measures, the value of the "buddy" system of always having a companion nearby for assistance.

They learn the all-important signal system between diver and tender while carrying out underwater repairs.

Cadets Live in World of Water At Esquimalt Diving School

Twelve naval officer cadets from Royal Roads are living in a world of water at the navy's operational diving school in Esquimalt as part of their summer training schedule.

The men are in the midst of an intensive two-week diving course to be followed by a week of underwater swimming from HMCS Oriole in up-island waters.

Classroom study is at a minimum. They learn by doing, and from the first day spend most of their time in the water.

As a start they learn the proper way to don their gear, how to breathe air through a mouthpiece from tanks strapped to their backs.

They carry out complicated mechanical exercises underwater. In one they are required to take apart a one-by-two-foot rectangle of two-inch pipe, consisting of 24 sections, all threaded, and reassemble it, all within eight minutes at a depth of 20 feet.

Preparing for descent into Esquimalt Harbor is Officer Cadet Dennis Guelpa, 19, of 2553 Garden, aided by Officer Cadet Geoffrey Archibald, 19, of 686 Linkleas. They are two of 12 naval cadets from Canadian Services College, Royal Roads, on course at Pacific Command's operational diving school in Esquimalt.

Planning Interest Studied

How to interest the people of lower Vancouver Island in the elements of good regional planning is the task being tackled by a civic-minded group here.

The Capital Region branch of the Community Planning Association of Canada will meet in the Brechin room of Holyrood House, 2315 McBride, at 8 p.m. today.

OPEN TO PUBLIC

William Kerr, planning officer for the municipality of Richmond, will speak on regional planning. The meeting will be open to the public.

The CPAC group here will press for solution of a number of planning problems and hopes to call for an updating of the Capital Region Planning Board's 1958 master plan for orderly development.

PROBLEMS CITED

It is also interested in the quality, height and siting of city apartment buildings, conserving of farm land near the city instead of letting it be broken up into housing subdivisions, and the pollution of water and air.

School Job Bill Cut by $47,000

Ruthless pruning by Greater Victoria school board has chipped $47,000 from costs of additions to Monterey School, and provisional approval will be sought for the amended work.

Pruning was forced when the lowest tender totalled $212,000, more than $50,000 over the $158,000 allowed in a money referendum passed almost two years ago.

CONTINGENCY FUND

Deletion of parts of the work involving the existing school building had reduced the cost to $163,000. The additional $7,000 above the estimate will come from a contingency fund, building and grounds committee chairman George Carran said last night.

Specifications included a large heating plant to serve both the additions and the old building. This has been altered to a heating plant to serve only the new construction.

FINISH TRIM

Wiring for the old building has also been eliminated to gether with some finish trim. Still to be resolved is additions to McKenzie School. An amount of $137,500 was allowed but the lowest tender was

Saanich Calling Tenders

Saanich School District G3 has called for tenders on one new elementary school and is expected to call for tenders on another in about a week. Both are to be ready in time for the fall term.

A three-classroom school is to be built on a five-acre site on West Saanich Road north of Dunsmuir Road, accommodating 100 pupils and relieving pressure at Brentwood Elementary School.

A four-classroom school on a five-acre site near the southeast corner of Lochside and Royal Oak Avenue will accommodate 146 students and relieve overcrowding at Cordova Bay Elementary School.

Secretary Honored

The CNIB Women's Auxiliary met recently at the institute on Blanshard Street. Mrs. C. C. Wyatt conducted the meeting at which the date of the Blind Craft sale was set for Oct. 25. Twenty members have had two outings, one through Beacon Hill Park and a picnic at the Gorge Park. Many visits have been made to blind persons by committee members.

A presentation of a sterling silver dogwood lapel piece was made by Miss Lottie Bowron, honorary vice-president, to Miss Gloria Mortimore, CNIB field secretary for Victoria and district for four years. Miss Mortimore leaves Victoria at the end of July for Toronto where she will continue studies towards her Masters Degree. Mr. William Tymchuk will succeed Miss Mortimore.

Ribout-Briggs

Pretty Wedding

A pretty wedding was solemnized recently when Bonnie Briggs, 1154 Esquimalt Road, became the bride of Mr. Noel Ribout, son of Mrs. H. Macdonald, 1533 Gladstone Avenue. Rev. H. Turpin officiated at the ceremony in Esquimalt United Church.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of white lace over tulle with white pointed sleeves. Her veil was caught in a coronet of rhinestones and pearls. She carried a spray of red roses and white carnations.

The bride had two attendants who wore pale pink nylon over tulle with matching accessories. They carried yellow roses and white carnations. Two little flower girls were in blue frocks and carried yellow rosebuds.

Best man was Mr. David Snape, and ushers were Mr. James Goguen and Mr. Robert Moore.

At the reception in the church hall a wedding cake was topped by a small arch and bells. Pink streamers and pink carnations decorated the hall.

For a honeymoon at Yellow Point Lodge the bride changed into a beige outfit with brown accessories.

The newlyweds will live in Nanaimo.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: Several weeks ago my wife's relatives were invited here for dinner. After saying grace I looked up and there was a dog—a 50-pound Boxer—sitting at the table, directly across from me.

My brother-in-law proceeded to ladle out beef stew for the animal, right on the plate, as if the dog were a person. I announced flatly that I was leaving the table and would have my dinner in the bedroom. No one said a word—and I did just that.

Now my brother-in-law and sister are furious with me and they refuse to come to our home again unless I apologize. My wife is on their side. Ann, she insists I was rude and ungracious and "a poor host."

I refuse to apologize. I contend they owe me an apology. I regret now that I was fool enough to leave my own table and allow that dog to sit there. Had I used my head I would have told them to take the animal into the back yard.

Everyone in the family is choosing up sides and having a say. Please, Ann, may I have your opinion of all this?—NO DINNER COMPANION FOR A DOG.

Dear No Companion: You owe no one an apology. If your sister and brother-in-law wish to allow their dog to be a guest at their table, that's their business, but they should not assume that the dog is welcome at the table of relatives.

Dear Ann Landers: My problem is an unusual one and I need help. I've been married for 15 years to a woman who says she is in love with me, happy as a lark, and wouldn't trade places with anyone in the world—but her suspicious nature is making my life unbearable.

About six months ago she began to ask me about the women I work with at the chemical plant. She insisted that she was able to detect an odor of perfume on my shirt and tie—and who was I seeing?

I am not seeing anyone and I have no wish to see anyone. I go straight home after work and I stay there. Two weeks ago my wife came down in the plant and sniffed around all the women to see if she could track down the perfume. She had no luck but intends to try again, she said.

I've asked a couple of friends at work if they can smell any perfume on me and they say no. Please tell me what to do about this. I am—TREED.

Dear Treed: Overactive imaginations have been known to destroy marriages. I hope your wife doesn't lose by a nose. If she persists in this bloodhound routine, suggest that she talk her problem over with a professional.

Dear Ann: I am almost 13 but I act, feel and look older. If you met me like on the street you'd take me for a girl of 16.

Mom is a OK but dad is a creep. Every Friday night a bunch of us girls take turns having the gang over. There are six couples and we are all in the eighth grade. We play records, dance and serve refreshments.

The problem is my dad won't let us turn off the lights in the rumpus room when we dance. He is an old man of 41 and doesn't realize it's no fun to dance unless it's dark. Nobody else's parents object and I'm embarrassed that my dad is so old-fashioned. Also I think he is evil-minded. What do you think?—MEANIE'S DAUGHTER.

Dear Daughter: Your dad sounds like the only parent in the bunch who has a working brain cell.

Eighth grade kids should not be partying boy-girl style and dancing in the dark can lead to nothing good. You kids are at least three years ahead of yourselves and I say mix it all of it.

Caroline Macklem Home

Blue Skies Draw Crowd

The grounds of the stately Caroline Macklem Home on Rockland Avenue provided a perfect setting for yesterday's garden party, held by the Women's Auxiliary of the Anglican Church of Canada. Honored guests at the affair were Mrs. George Pearkes, Archbishop and Mrs. Harold Sexton and Miss Kathleen Agnew. The lovely lawns were ringed with gay stalls and a large marquee shaded those tea guests not wishing to sit outside. Background music was provided by Central Junior High School Band. Roses, sweet peas and cornflowers were used as centre-pieces on the tea tables. Tea was served by St. Luke's evening branch of the Women's Auxiliary. Mrs. R. Batey was convener.

Guests of the Home were in charge of the hat bar under Mrs. F. B. Reid and Mrs. Peter Wilkin. The Home stall, with articles donated by ladies from the Home, was in the charge of Mrs. W. C. Dodsworth and Mrs. M. Adamson. Mrs. H. Foss looked after the guessing game. One of the novelties at the apron stall, under Mrs. H. U. Pender, were paper serviette aprons, containing a number of disposable tissues. Mrs. W. Gilmour and Mrs. H. Saicha were in charge of the home cooking stall which was filled with cakes, breads, jams, jellies and pickles. The candy stall was convener by Mrs. M. Crawford and Mrs. L. Mrs. Olga Bowes, has been chosen by the University Women's Club of Victoria, to represent the club at the annual council meeting of the Canadian Federation of University Women, to be held at the University of Toronto June 20 to 23.

University women from across Canada, representing more than 10,500 members and 108 clubs and alumnae associations will attend the annual meeting to hear reports of the year's activities and take part in workshops.

Mrs. Bowes, who is the local federation representative, reported recently that fellowships totalling $15,000 have been awarded to women throughout Canada, according to an announcement made by the national president of the Canadian Federation of University Women, Miss Margaret MacLellan, Ottawa.

Make $70

FULFORD — The Burgoyne Bay United Church Women held a garden party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. House which was opened by Mrs. W. M. Moutat.

Teas were served at tables placed under the trees on the lawn. The home cooking stall was kept busy and was in the charge of Mrs. J. Stewart and Mrs. G. Reynolds.

Mrs. H. Townsend handled the miscellaneous stall and serving teas were Mrs. H. Dickens, Mrs. J. Fraser, Mrs. S. Williams and Mrs. C. Lee. Mrs. W. Bridgen won a cake by guessing the correct weight. The sum of $70 was taken in.

that Man in the Kitchen

The Italian "pasta," in its varied shapes and sizes, fortunately for us is not seasonal and for the devotee this is a blessing.

There are times when a dish of pasta with an appropriate sauce is the only dish one could possibly eat—it becomes a sort of fetish. Fortunately the sauce recipes are numerous and a great many of them are simple to make. In preparation there is one important fact to bear in mind, the pasta, whether it be spaghetti, macaroni or any of the other pasta variations, should never be overcooked—there is nothing worse. It should be "al dente," which means it should be soft to the bite but still a little on the chewy side, and, of course, it should not taste starchy. The secret in cooking it is to use plenty of boiling salted water and to add the pasta a handful at a time so that the water continues to boil. The cooking time will vary according to the shape and size of the pasta, and will take anywhere from seven to twelve minutes, consequently, it should be tested after seven minutes.

One of the simplest ways of serving is the addition of butter, cheese and salt and pepper. Drain the pasta well, add a liberal amount of butter and then season with salt and freshly ground pepper and toss the pasta, adding grated parmesan cheese.

Another good method of serving is to heat equal quantities of good olive oil and butter in a heavy skillet, add two or three cloves of garlic and cook long enough for the garlic to flavor the oil and butter mixture—remove the garlic and add the drained pasta, toss well and season with salt and pepper—serve with grated parmesan cheese.

A cupful of freshly chopped parsley added to the pasta makes a wonderful change.

Some people prefer a more elaborate sauce and there are many recipes for meat sauces and, of course, meat balls with sauce. Here are two recipes for simple sauces that are rather out of the ordinary:

TOMATO SAUCE WITH MUSHROOMS
(Makes 2½ cups of sauce)
Three tablespoons butter or olive oil, ¼ cup chopped onion, ¼ cup chopped parsley, ½ cup sliced mushrooms, 1 clove garlic finely chopped, 2 cups canned tomatoes, 3 tablespoons tomato paste, salt, pepper.
Heat the butter in a saucepan and saute the garlic, onion and parsley. When the onions are transparent, add the mushrooms and cook for three minutes stirring occasionally.
Add the tomatoes and simmer for 15 minutes. Stir in the tomato paste and cook for a further ten minutes, season with salt and pepper.

SEAFOOD SAUCE
(Makes four servings)
Two tablespoons olive oil, 1 large onion sliced, 2 cloves garlic minced, 1 qt. canned to-matos, 1½ lbs. raw shrimp, shelled and chopped, pinch of oregano, salt and pepper to taste.

Heat the oil and saute the onion until transparent. Add the garlic and cook for a further three minutes. Add the tomatoes and cook, uncovered, over a fairly high heat for twelve minutes. Add the shrimp and oregano, reduce the heat and simmer for another five minutes. Season with salt and pepper.

The Italian plum tomatoes are the best type to use but if they are not available, use the ordinary canned variety but add a little sugar during the preparation.

Bon appetit!

Seattle Reunion For '28 Grads

The class of 1928 of the Royal Jubilee Hospital recently celebrated their class reunion at the Olympic Hotel, Seattle.

Centrepiece at the banquet was a large cake in the shape of the hospital pin, a gold Maltese cross, surrounded with red and white carnations, red, white and blue ribbons. These were the colors and flowers used at the graduation in 1928. Mrs. M. Davis did the decorations and individual menus were made by Mrs. M. Johnson.

Brunch was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Glaser of Bellevue and Mr. and Mrs. Victor Johnson, Edmonds. Hostesses were Miss Diana Crystal and Mrs. M. Johnson of Seattle and Mrs. Kitty Trevan of Concord, Calif.

Others who attended were Mrs. L. Macdonald, Courtenay; Mrs. L. Grant, Lake Cowichan; Miss Audrey Price, Miss Pearl Barbour, Miss Joy Phillips, Mrs. G. Welland and Mrs. Audrey Pollard, of Victoria; Mrs. M. Cavaye, Ganges. The class will hold its next reunion in 1968, in Victoria, when the school will celebrate its 75th anniversary.

Undemanding Shrub

By M. V. CHESNUT, FREE

I have gone on record several times in this column to the effect that if I could have only one flowering shrub in my garden, it would be one of the old-fashioned, sweetly-scented lilacs. If my available space and the depth of my pocketbook would allow me two shrubs, my second choice would be a Forsythia.

These are opening their dainty golden bells to greet the spring almost before the winter is over. In fact, at our house we have vases filled with Forsythia sprays as early as January, by the simple expedient of cutting the bare branches in winter and bringing them indoors to open their buds in the warmth.

Forsythia is certainly an undemanding shrub, for it will thrive in almost any kind of soil without pampering, and it will bloom happily on the north, the south, the east or the west side of the house. You can grow it in the shrub border, against a wall, as a weeping specimen in the lawn, and even in the rock garden, for there are dwarf varieties admirably suited for this purpose.

As a companion to other shrubs or to grow by itself as a lawn specimen, one of the varieties of the "intermedia" group should be chosen. Probably the one most commonly seen hereabouts is Forsythia intermedia spectabilis, which blooms very freely with deep yellow bells and with an erect but rather spraying habit of growth. Similar, but in a softer shade of yellow, is the variety F.L. primulina.

These two are standard varieties stocked by almost every nurseryman, and usually selling for around $2, but there are specially selected strains which are even more beautiful. From Ireland, for instance, we have Lynwood Gold, which was discovered as a sport growing from a single branch of Spectabilis. The shrub is more erect than the parent type, and the branches literally smother themselves with the biggest golden bells ever seen on any Forsythia. It has a companion in a pale primrose yellow, almost cream, called Spring Glory. These cost a little more, around $3 each as a rule.

For training on walls and trellises, the varieties of Forsythia suspensa are ideal. These have long, whip-like branches of pendulous character—almost a weeping habit of growth. The varieties F.s. decipiens and fortunei can get along with surprisingly little sun and are quite happy on a north wall. Atroculla is a dilly for a trellis, with slender, hanging branches of deep purple bark contrasting beautifully with the sulphur yellow flowers. I have seen these listed in B.C. catalogues for as little as $2 each.

The pruning of Forsythia consists simply of cutting away the old wood to make room for new young growth, but the treatment of these two groups, intermedia and suspensa, is somewhat different.

A new shoot on intermedia won't bear any flowers until it has had at least two summers to ripen and harden its wood, but it will continue to bloom for several seasons thereafter. The trick here, then, is to maintain a supply of ripe but not ancient shoots coming along, and taking out the older growth when they show signs of exhaustion.

The recommended time for pruning Forsythia is just after blooming, but with intermedia, it pays to do the job while the shrub is actually blossoming. Take a lot of sprays to fill the vases and bowls in the house, but make your selection from shoots where the bloom is just a little on this side. Don't just shorten these shoots, but take them out in their entirety, discarding the portions you don't want for your vases. In this way, you will be pruning your shrub correctly.

Suspensa, on the other hand, blooms best on new wood, formed the previous year, and pruning consists of cutting back all side shoots to within two buds of the base. Do the job every year just after the blossoms fade, and lots of new side shoots will form during the summer to make bloom the following year.

Creator of Lil Abner Tells ART BUCHWALD

Be Brutal to Your Children!

It's the Only Way To Get Results

There are many different attitudes on how to treat youth. One we heard comes from Al Capp, the cartoonist, father of three, who told us:

"When I was six years old my parents put me in a clean shirt, pointed out the direction of school, and told me not to come back for eight years. They never expected to see my teachers, and the teachers never expected to see my parents. Each one had a function."

"My parents were supposed to feed and clothe me; my teachers were supposed to teach me how to read and write. Neither group had any effect on the other. The only thing my parents knew about my teacher was that 'she was always picking on me.' Every child's teacher was 'always picking on him.'"

"My teachers graded me on arithmetic, English, history, and geography. Since I failed all of them, it was obvious I was going to be a cartoonist."

"But we were never graded for adjustment, emotional stability, or 'Does he get along with other children?' My parents knew I got along with other children just by virtue of the fact I came home every afternoon with a bloody nose or a black eye."

"In those days we didn't worry about emotional stability. All children were emotionally unstable. They were full of hatreds and frustrations. Wouldn't you be if you were half the size of the rest of the world and didn't have a nickel to your name?"

"In my day it wasn't a question of which was the best school to send a kid to, it was which was the nearest one. All schools were good, just as all churches were good, and all teachers were good."

"We never heard of words like adjustment, environment, rejection, and community of children. Sure we were loved. We took it for granted that it was natural for everyone to hate us. No one paid any attention to us. And we, in turn, didn't pick up our father's shotgun and wipe out the whole family."

"The child today is wise to the adult jargon, and as soon as he thinks his parents are paying any attention to him, the monster swells up in him. The child who is held in proper contempt by his family is grateful for anything he gets. All he needs is food and shelter. If he's loved, he becomes drunk with power, flexes his muscles, and takes over."

"Those parents who concern themselves with their children's problems are crazy. The problems of a nine-year-old kid cannot be solved in any way except by becoming 10. The problems of a 16-year-old will only be solved by turning 17."

Mr. Capp believes that the emphasis on teen-agers has been damaging. "Teen-agers are repulsive to everybody except each other. We all know that children pass through various stages of insanity, so why try to understand them?"

"But aren't teen-agers unhappy?"

"Sure they are. Let them stay that way. We've put too much emphasis on security. The teen-agers today have been told they have rights. Why should they have rights?"

"In Europe kids have no rights. If they ever asked for any they'd get belted by their fathers. But in North America, things have been switched around. Children used to try to please their parents—now the parents try to please the children."

"It is my humble belief that we should give our children something they desperately need and crave for—brutality. We must make them feel neglected, insecure, unwanted, and unloved."

"In return, we'll get courtesy, obedience, good scholastic records, and fewer parents will be killed. They'll be so eager to be wanted that they'll do everything in the world to please us."

"Is there anything else?"

"Yes, don't be a pal to your son. Be his father. What child needs a 40-year-old man for a friend?"

"Keep in mind we owe children nothing. We'll supply them food, shelter, and clothing only because we're gambling that someday these subhumans will turn into civilized beings and, possibly, make a reasonable, honest citizens."

Inspirational Classic

Feel Discouraged? This Should Help

By RUDOLF FLESH

I've discovered a little inspirational classic—the essay, On Application to Study, written some 150 years ago by the English writer, William Hazlitt.

Here's a brief excerpt for you to clip and reread whenever you feel tired and discouraged:

"Success prompts to exertion; and habit facilitates success. It is idle to suppose we can exhaust nature; and the more we employ our own faculties, the more we strengthen them and enrich our stores of observation and invention. The more we do, the more we CAN do. Not indeed if we get our ideas out of our own heads—that stock is soon exhausted, and we recur to tiresome, rapid imitations of ourselves."

"But this is the difference between real and mock talent, between genius and affectation. Nature is not limited, nor does it become effete, like our conceit and vanity. The closer we examine it, the more it refines upon us; it expands as we enlarge and shift our view; it grows with our growth, and strengthens with our strength. The subjects are endless; and our capacity is invigorated as it is called out by occasion and necessity."

"He who does nothing, renders himself incapable of doing anything; but while we are executing any work, we are preparing and qualifying ourselves to undertake another. The principles are the same in all nature; and we understand them better, as we verify them by experience and practice."

"It is not as if there were a given number of subjects to work upon or a set of innate and preconceived ideas in our minds which we encroached upon with every new design; the subjects, as I said before, are endless, and we acquire ideas by imparting them. Our expenditure of intellectual wealth makes us rich; we can only be liberal as we have previously accumulated the means."

"By lying idle, as by standing still, we are confined to the same trite, narrow round of topics; by continuing our efforts, as by moving forward in a road, we extend our views and discover continually new tracts of country. Genius, like humanity, rusts for want of use. Habit also gives promptness; and the soul of despatch is decision. One man may write a book or paint a picture, while another is deliberating about the plan or the title page. The great painters were able to do so much, because they knew exactly what they meant to do, and how to set about it."

"One can do a great deal in a short time if one only knows how. Thus an author may become very voluminous, who only employs an hour or two in a day in study. If he has once obtained, by habit and reflection, a use of his pen, with plenty of materials to work upon, the pages vanish before him. The time lost is in the beginning, or in stopping after we have begun."

"If we only go forward with spirit and confidence, we shall soon arrive at the end of our journey."

Piano Keys Given New Lease on Life

LONDON, England—A piano key can be struck a million times in the future, thanks to an invention by engineer Arnold Wigley. The invention will treble the use of a piano without a replacement.

The new component, made of brass and a new plastic, is used to replace a small felt brush in the mechanism of a piano which falls on average after 200,000 strikes. The new brass-plastic brush is unaffected after a million notes.

Wigley invented his brush after searching in vain for a secondhand piano in good condition. He failed to find one because damage had occurred in almost every case to the tiny felt brush, one-tenth of an inch long, in the action mechanism.

Thais Track Man-Eater

BANGKOK, Thailand — (AP)—A hunting expedition has been sent to track down a man-eating tiger which already has claimed two victims in Thailand's southern Chumphon province, the newspaper Bangkok World reported Wednesday.

Adrift Six Days in Box

Fisherman Russell C. Swift, 45, from West Springfield, Pa., was rescued by U.S. Coast Guard after being adrift in 39-inch square baitbox in Gulf of Mexico for six days, without food or water, after his 30-foot snapper boat Java sank on its inaugural run. He was sunburned and blistered but in good condition.

Even Airline Bags

Many Nations Aiding Parched Hong Kong

HONG KONG (AP)—Water is flowing into Hong Kong by plane, ship and ferry — and even in little plastic bags carried by airline passengers — to help relieve the worst drought in history.

British, U.S. and other warships that use Hong Kong as a recreation port are helping by distilling harbor water for parched consumers.

SEVERE BLOW

Several shipping firms have joined in the effort to help Hong Kong survive a seven-month drought that has dealt a severe blow to industry and has reduced individual water rations to four hour's supply of tap water every four days.

Ferries from the nearby Portuguese colony of Macao plan to ship 100,000 gallons of water daily in tanks and drums.

LEONS CLUB

The Taipei waterworks in Formosa is air-freighting 20,000 gallons by distributing 10-pound plastic bags of fresh water to airline passengers. These add up to a few drops in the bucket compared to the 80,000,000 gallons Hong Kong's industries and its 3,500,000 residents consume daily under restricted rations. Normal consumption is 100,000,000 gallons daily.

FIRST TWO

Japan has promised 1,000,000 gallons of distilled water and the first two shipments arrived last week.

Some U.S. ships have started taking on water in Japan and discharging it here. A freighter brought in 480,000 gallons of water distilled in Manila.

Rain is the only final solution to Hong Kong's many reservoirs, now down to 20 days' supply.

Best of Year Named At Malahat

Ordinary Seaman Chris Dawson won the Capt. G. A. V. Thomson trophy as the best new entry in the training year just completed at HMCS Malahat, Victoria's naval reserve division. OS G. Tucknott was runner-up.

Other award winners in various branches were AB B. H. Wilby, AB J. N. Dennis, OS L. E. Thomas, OS D. A. Belton, AB K. L. Murray, OS G. W. McKinney and OS W. C. Warren.

Capt. Thomson, former commanding officer of the division, made presentations to the winners at the recent closing divisional drill.

ATHENS — Harry Truman has thanked the Greek government for the controversial statue erected in his honor last month. But Truman's letter said he felt such honors should not be bestowed until 10 years after a statesman's death.

USUMBURA, Burundi — Premier Andre Nduwumwa and his cabinet have resigned over what is believed to be a difference with the Legislative Assembly. Mwami (King) Ntare Rukundo is expected to name a new premier this week.

Cleo Best or Worst?

Critics Split Sharply Over Epic Film

NEW YORK (UPI) — Critics split down the middle Wednesday night following the world premiere of 20th Century-Fox's Cleopatra, the costliest and longest film ever made.

The New York Times said it was "surpassing entertainment, one of the great films of our day." Elizabeth Taylor is "a woman of force and dignity." Richard Burton is "exciting" as Marc Antony.

The New York Herald Tribune called Cleopatra "at best a major disappointment, at worst an extravagant exercise in tedium... the mountain of notoriety has produced a mouse."

The New York Daily News called the four-hour and three-minute film "a magnificent spectacle that gratifies our desire for perfection, enriches our love for beauty and art and fulfills our admiration of brilliant acting."

Jack Gaver of United Press International admitted there has never been a more spectacular movie but called it "at least an hour too long" and said the love scenes were dull. All critics hailed the performances of Rex Harrison as Caesar and Roddy McDowall as Octavian.

The film which will make or break financially ailing Fox has 9,000 on the screen and drew an unruly Broadway crowd of 8,000 or more. It took 125 mounted police, patrolmen, plainclothesmen and private guards to control the celebrity-seeking mob.

Liz and Burton stayed in London, where he is making a new film. The 6,623-member audience in the Rivoli Theatre paid nearly $150,000, half of it to charity, to attend the premiere.

Smile Show Can Smile Again, Hall Found for July 1 Start

After months of frantic search, after English music hall entertainment and has become an integral part of the Victoria scene in its 10 years' existence, will continue nightly except Sundays at 8:30 p.m. until Aug. 24. Mr. Gosley began a desperate search for a hall when he was

Liquor Nets $242,000,000; $8,000 for Alcoholism

OTTAWA (CP)—Federal revenues from the sale of liquor, wine and beer totalled $242,000,000 in 1962, the government said in a reply tabled in the Commons Wednesday for Barry Mather (NDP—New Westminster). It spent just under $8,000 on projects relating to alcoholism.

Flower Show June 21

The annual flower show and horticultural exhibition of the Victoria Horticultural Society will be held in the Victoria Curling Rink June 21 and 22.

Mrs. C. R. Pearkes, the lieutenant-governor's wife, will officially open the show at 2:30 p.m. June 21.

Twenty cups and trophies will be up for competition in the 128 classes of exhibits at the show.

Classes open for competition at the show include four classes of begonias, 26 of miscellaneous flowers, three of pansies and violets, two of African violets, three of bonnet plants and 21 classes of fruits and vegetables.

One of the features of the show will be a New Zealand tree named Pohutukawa.

There will also be a display of roses grown from seed by one of the society's members.

Robin Baron, floral designer for Parks Florists, Toronto and Vancouver, will be on hand each day and will give demonstrations of flower arranging.

The experimental farm will put on a display and there will also be a replica of a Japanese tea garden.

S. J. Shanks, Native Son Dead at 80

Samuel James Shanks, a native son of Victoria, died yesterday at 80.

Mr. Shanks was a member of James Bay Athletic Association for many years and a former member of the United Commercial Travellers.

He lived at 1017 Fairfield Road and was predeceased by his wife who died in July, 1962.

He is survived by three sons, Howard, Nanaimo; Neville at Campbell River and Raymond of Victoria; one brother, R. H. Shanks, and one sister, Mrs. Gertrude Havercroft, both of Victoria.

Prayers will be offered at Hayward's Chapel, Friday at 8 p.m.

Interment at Hatley Memorial Gardens.

Sea Sign—Horrors!

VANCOUVER (CP)—Billboards on a marine highway?

Horrors!

A horrified British Columbia government official Wednesday strongly protested a newly posted billboard on a mainland-Vancouver Island ferry route.

"Our American tourists appreciate the fact our highways are cluttered by signs, and this is a road of the sea," said Dr. David Turner, deputy minister of recreation.

"Besides, it's a beautiful place, and if this continues it could look like Coney Island."

But he said there is no law against it.

D. Ray Mitchell, owner of the 12-foot-high and 32-foot-long sign, said it stays during the five-year lease he has on a point on Mayne Island, on one side of Active Pass.

The sign says, "Capilano Suspension Bridge, North Vancouver." Passengers on the ferry

Mayne Island side of the hourly ferries can't miss it.

Mr. Mitchell, operator of the suspension bridge over the Capilano River, said B.C. government literature attracts tourists to the government-owned ferries but not to the Vancouver area.

"I've got the whole point tied up, and the sign stays."

"If I get into any more trouble over it, I'll put lights

Circus 'Take' Pleasing

Victoria Shrine Club officials said last night that they were "very pleased" with the 16,000 paid admissions to four performances of the 1963 Shrine Circus.

It was too early last night to tell what will be the net proceeds for charitable purposes, but there were more adults in the audiences than in previous years, and it seemed the circus was a successful event, they said.

Convict Says Officials Blocking Murder Probe

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—A convict charged Wednesday that New Westminster penitentiary officials are "blocking a murder investigation about a guard killing a convict."

Nelson Bernard Wood, charged with brutality in the penitentiary, also said a prisoner was kept in solitary confinement for 18 months.

Wood is one of three men charged with confining, assault and robbing a guard and attempting to escape the penitentiary April 13 and 20.

defendants Gerard Calasey and Wayne Carlson during preliminary hearing. The hearing was adjourned until June 20.

Wood said the prisoner in solitary was Lorne Peebles, who had been "shanghaied" to New Westminster without a warrant.

Wood said Peebles is one of the many witnesses he plans to call.

Magistrate Gordon MacKinnon agreed to consider applications to subpoena witnesses, including the director of penitentiaries, the head of the National Parole Board and former prison

Blanshard Project In Council's Lap

The provincial government has tossed the controversial Blanshard Street urban renewal project right back into the lap of city council.

Housing commissioner J. E. Brown, in a letter received at city hall Wednesday, said the government had approved the project in principle.

STATUS QUERIED

"However, I understand your council has decided not to proceed with this scheme at this time," Mr. Brown said. "I would appreciate if you would advise me of the status of the scheme so that I could inform Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation."

Ald. A. W. Toome said that so far as he was concerned, as chairman of the urban renewal committee, the city's initial application had been ordered sent to both B.C. and Ottawa officials for their approval in principle.

PLAN NOT ABANDONED

"There has been no motion by city council to abandon the project or even defer it," he said. "The only decision made so far has been to strip the committee of its funds. But I presume that sufficient money to carry out our share of the project would be included in any program of capital borrowing."

Mayor R. B. Wilson also said the project had not been abandoned. "We are simply waiting for further clarification from Ottawa on the new ground rules for urban renewal projects of this nature," he said.

Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, on behalf of the federal government, must still examine the city's proposal in detail before recommending its approval in principle.

Ald. Toome said approval of both governments was required before anything was done to redevelop an area roughly bounded by Douglas, Hillside, Quadra and Bay. This would not be forthcoming for several months.

UP TO COUNCIL

"If one government should not approve the scheme as it is presently set out, I would assume that they will give us reasons," the chairman said. It would then be up to city council to decide whether the plan should be altered or dropped.

Courtroom Parade

Motorist Gets 37 Days in Jail For Hit-Run, Careless Driving

A motorist who had an accident, left the scene and a short while later was involved in another accident was sentenced to 37 days in jail in city magistrate's court Wednesday.

William L. Smith, 1020 Tillam, was charged with two counts of careless driving and one of failing to remain at the scene of an accident. He pleaded guilty to all three charges.

Court was told Smith struck two parked cars on Princess Street May 5, left the scene of the accident and returned to a party. There he phoned police to say his car was stolen then left the party to move his car. In the process of moving the car he failed to make a corner at Cook and Chambers and ran into a stop sign and fence.

Before passing sentence Magistrate William Ostler heard a list of the accused's previous convictions on traffic violations which included careless driving, driving while under suspension, and failing to remain at the scene of an accident.

Dennis W. James, 140 Menzies, who pleaded guilty to taking a car without the owner's consent, at a previous session of city magistrate's court, was ordered to keep the peace and be of good behavior for six months. He was also forbidden to drive during that period without the consent of the court.

Magistrate Ostler instructed James if he was to find a job which involved driving his case would be reviewed.

A man "with an urge to go to Seattle" pleaded guilty to a charge of stealing $150 from the office of Jimmie Little's store, 2017 Quadra, and was remanded until June 20 for a probation report.

Ervin Spill, 525 Johnson, admitted stealing the money June 9.

Court was told he had been a casual employee, at the store. He entered the store June 9 for a cup of coffee, then went to the office where the door was unlocked, opened a suitcase used to carry money deposits to the bank, removed $150 and fled.

Police later arrested him at his home and recovered the money from his pocket.

Robert McCutcheon, charged with stealing money from his employer, was remanded without plea until Monday.

The court was told the amount involved was about $300, allegedly taken from Midland Superior Express, Ltd., between Jan. 1 and June 11.

Adrian Roy, charged with being in possession of stolen goods, elected trial by judge and jury at a special session of magistrate's court and was remanded until June 20 for preliminary hearing.

Is your dog bone-hungry, too?

MILK-BONE satisfies the bone hunger of your dog

A dog needs to chew, and knows it. In the absence of a bone, even the best-trained dog will find something else to chew—often something he shouldn't. But there are few bones in today's kitchens. Many that are available are not safe or good for your dog. That's why the modern dog goes bone-hungry.

The answer is MILK-BONE—the biscuit with the real bone shape that makes wonderful chewing, without a real bone's tendency to splinter or upset the digestion. MILK-BONE also gives your dog all the important nourishment found in milk, meat, bone-meal and vegetables. ## Kennedy Fear

Discontent Grips U.S.

ATLANTA (UPI)—The "rising tide" of racial discontent of which President Kennedy warned swept cities both North and South Thursday.

Jackson, Miss., where integration leader Medgar Evers was shot to death by a sniper, appeared to be potentially most explosive. The slaying touched off a new round of demonstrations in the city which has been quiet in recent days.

Tuscaloosa, Ala., while outwardly less of a tinder box, was far from normal. Hundreds of troops were moving into the city for possible duty at the University of Alabama, where two Negroes were admitted Monday.

There have been no signs of disorder on the campus, but the troops were moved up when Gov. George Wallace advised Kennedy the state would not be responsible for the safety of the students.

The president went before a national radio-television audience Tuesday to express regrets it had been necessary to use troops to get Negroes admitted. He urged every citizen on the integration issue and warned of a "rising tide of discontent that threatens the public safety."

On the basis of his words came these developments:

King Fights Crisis

ATHENS (AP)—King Paul summoned opposition political leaders to his palace Wednesday in an effort to pull Greece out of a government crisis.

The political leaders came out of the meeting saying the best solution for the crisis would be for the king to appoint an interim government. Constantine Caramanlis, who resigned as premier Tuesday in protest of a state visit to Britain by King Paul and Queen Frederika, has demanded dissolution of Parliament and a new election.

King Paul could ignore the new election demand. But opposition by Caramanlis' National Radical Union, which holds 100 seats in the 300-member Parliament, could block any attempt to provide an effective alternative government.

Lie-In

Ahead

NEW YORK (AP)—A Negro leader has promised a massive sit-in on the U.S. Congress in Washington this summer and said that if civil rights bills are filibustered, Negroes will put on a U.S.-wide campaign of civil disobedience.

Rev. George Lawrence said the protest would take the form of tying up transportation by "laying our bodies prostrate on runways of airports, across railroad tracks and in bus depots."

Senator Charges

Kennedy 'Shocker' Called Step To Communism

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Richard Russell, leader of the southern Congressional bloc, charged Wednesday President Kennedy was raising the spectre of mass racial violence to push civil rights proposals that were a step in the direction of socialism or communism.

Russell assailed the president's Tuesday civil rights speech as "shocking" and pledged to lead a fight against the administration's legislative package "with every means and resource at my command."

The Georgia Democrat took his stand in a statement issued as a caucus of Southern senators met behind closed doors to map strategy that undoubtedly would include a filibuster against the president's program.

Against the background of the ambush slaying of Negro integration leader Medgar Evers in Jackson, Miss., these other developments bore on the civil rights legislative picture:

● Kennedy conferred with former president Dwight Eisenhower on the civil rights legislation he will send Congress next week and the racial problem in general.

● Sen. Thurston Morton of Kentucky predicted the administration will be unable to pick up enough Republican votes to end a civil rights filibuster but said southern opposition could be beaten down by around-the-clock Senate sessions.

Russell charged a Kennedy

Canada Facing Turmoil

TORONTO (UPI)—Noted Canadian jazz pianist Oscar Peterson says racial turmoil will erupt in Canada unless Canadians end their "quiet segregation."

Peterson said many U.S. Negro students attending his advanced school for contemporary music have been refused apartments because of their color. His mother and sister recently were refused apartment space and took weeks to find a home.

Peterson, who refuses to perform in the Southern U.S. because, "It's just not worth it," said southern Americans and Canadians are "great tongue-clashers."

"They shout shame, shame when they hear of segregation," he said. "But many of them condone and contribute to it."

Pooled Resources

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (UPI)—The boys of the 127th Air National Guard Transport Company, in summer camp here, are literally up in the air over a private swimming pool club.

Club members have noticed heavy helicopter traffic above the pool area. The dressing rooms have no roofs.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—A police dispatcher noted it was only 21 degrees, not too hot for this time of year, and immediately sent a car to arrest a man reported moving his lawn in the mud.

Dynamite Death

ENTIRE FLQ FACES TRIAL

MONTREAL (CP)—Twenty-one members of the terrorist group Le Front de Liberation Quebec were held criminally responsible Wednesday for the death by dynamite explosion of an army night watchman last April 20.

The late-night time-bomb blast was one of a series of terrorist activities in the Montreal area from March 8 when gasoline bottles were flung at Montreal Armories and May 20 when an armory was the scene of a dynamite blast.

A coroner's court jury of five men, ending a sometimes stormy three-day inquest, brought in a four-to-one majority verdict naming one by one the 21 persons, mostly in their teens and early 20s and one of them a young woman.

All 21 were named by coroner Marcel Trahan in his address to the jury as members of the FLQ, "a group organized for the purpose of violence."

He said, "I believe the evidence demands that you find all of them criminally responsible. However, it is not up to me. You are the masters of the facts."

Jacques Ducros, a lawyer for the Crown, said that charges will be laid "as early as possible — perhaps within 48 hours."

MURDER CHARGE:

He was asked whether there would be charges of murder as a result of the death of Wilfred Vincent O'Neill, 65, killed when a bomb exploded at the rear of an army recruiting station in mid-town Montreal.

"That is being studied," he said.

Reporters then asked whether the Crown would proceed by preferred indictment—a procedure bypassing the formality of a preliminary hearing—to send the 21 persons to trial immediately.

WRAPPED UP

"That, too, is being studied," Mr. Ducros said.

A reporter asked: "Does this wrap up the FLQ?"

He nodded.

"Do you have them all?"

"Yes."

The group concerned in the inquest verdict includes 15 material witnesses arrested in a series of police raids starting June 1. Held on coroner's warrants without charges, some have been in detention since that weekend.

The names of the six others came up in testimony at the inquest. Three of them were picked up by police Wednesday, one of them spotted in the court

Which One of Four?

Grave Yields Boy's Body

QUEBEC (CP)—Quebec Provincial Police Wednesday night found the naked body of a small boy in a shallow grave in Portneuf County, where they have been searching for clues to the disappearance of four boys in the last seven weeks.

Inspector J. Alphonse Matte said parents of the missing boys have been called to the morgue to try to identify the body.

It had apparently been buried beneath about eight inches of sandy soil for several weeks, he said.

NO INDICATION

There was no indication how the boy had died. He appeared to be about eight or 10 years old and weighed about 75 pounds. Inspector Matte said the teeth likely would lead to identification.

The body was found after dark by Inspector Matte, Sgt. Andre Ste. Marie and Cpl. J. A. Landry.

HUNTING CROWS

A youth in Portneuf County about 25 miles west of Quebec City was hunting crows Wednesday when he noticed them circling in one area.

This was what led police to the grave, in a meadow surrounded by trees and deep in the woods.

RCMP at Whitehorse are awaiting reports on tests at the force's crime laboratory in Regina.

Convict Named In Death

WHITEHORSE, Yukon (CP)—Kroli Maral, 26, an immigrant from Hungary now in the B.C. Penitentiary, has been charged with capital murder in the death of Henry Meriguet, 28, of Ancey, France, RCMP announced Wednesday.

Maral, now serving 43 months in the penitentiary at New Westminster for burglary and theft, was charged Saturday.

Parts of a body, tentatively identified as that of Meriguet, were found May 27 by RCMP search dogs at an isolated Alaska Highway gravel pit 25 miles southeast of Whitehorse.

Used That 'Frank'

Fishing Union Sorry

VANCOUVER (CP)—The United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union (Ind.) Wednesday night apologized to a New Democratic Party member of Parliament for using his Parliamentary frank to distribute a union statement.

Secretary-treasurer Homer Stevens explained how the union literature got into the envelopes bearing the initials and free mailing privileges—frank—of Dr. William Howe, Hamilton South MP.

He said a union delegation was in the office Dr. Howe shares with New Westminster MP Barry Mather. The delegation realized a release had not been sent to all Pacific Coast MPs.

The delegation in particular wanted to reach Grant Deachman, Liberal member for Vancouver Quadra, who raised the issue about use of the frank in the Commons Tuesday.

"It would have only taken a few minutes to have walked over to our hotel and mailed Mr. Deachman's and a few other notes, free of charge from there, using hotel envelopes, if we were such slackers as is now suggested," said Mr. Stevens.

"However, unaware of the possible misconstruction that might be placed on so doing, the notes and releases were put in envelopes which apparently bore Dr. Howe's initials. "We apologize to Dr. Howe and his staff for any embarrassment arising from this incident and wish to make it clear they were not responsible for our actions."

Macmillan Must Go Cabinet Rebels Feel

LONDON (Reuters)—Political observers were skeptical Wednesday night of assurances from the scandal-ridden Conservative government that a Conservative party revolt to oust Prime Minister Harold Macmillan had been safely avoided. (See also Page 18.)

BEFORE DEBATE

The four ministers were reported ready to use their own resignations as a weapon to force Macmillan to quit before next Monday's parliamentary debate on the Profumo scandal—the worst crisis Macmillan has ever faced.

The Independent Times of London says the "silly business" resulting from the scandal over ex-war minister John Profumo who resigned because he lied about his affair with a London model "has passed from being one of politics to one of conscience."

The Times said the real test may come today when the cabinet meets.

"Certainly one or two ministers, perhaps four in all, will have to come to terms with

Profumo 'Censored'

Jagan Shoots Way Out

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (AP)—With bodyguards firing pistols from both sides of the car, leftist Premier Cheddi Jagan's automobile burst through a hostile crowd outside the Parliament Building Wednesday. Six persons were reported injured.

The incident occurred after Trades Union Council squatters, increasingly menacing in their eight-week general strike, had trapped Jagan, dentist of East Indian origin, and the rest of his cabinet in the building. The strike was called to protest against a labor bill which Jagan's foes say would give the premier control over workers in a move toward a dictatorship. The shooting incident touched off a new wave of looting in the capital.

In the city, Negroes were reported to have beaten up East Indians, while in rural areas Negroes were attacked by East Indians. Police reported making more than 100 arrests following incidents Tuesday.

Girls Better In School

COURTENAY — The education system seems to be geared to girls and juveniles rather than to near adults, John Bowbrick, principal of Tsalum junior secondary school, said here.

Mr. Bowbrick said he had noticed at his school girls took most of the scholarships and achieved more than the boys with the result the school was losing some of its "bright rebels."

He said a person who was "not a bit of a rebel" was of little use to our civilization.

He said some system should be devised to increase boys' interest in school.

An intensive search by RCMP and Saanich police for people associated with a Victoria businessman linked to obscene literature and pictures led policemen to Nanaimo, Vancouver and Seattle.

Thomas H. Carson, 2511 Maynard, Victoria, pleaded guilty Tuesday in Saanich magistrate's court to having three-year old Valley Lake Club will go to their picnic at Glen Lake June 20 where they will meet with their most recent but most experienced member, Frau Charlotte von Schnoor-Carolsfeld.

Three enthusiastic followers of the old craft formed the local club, and now the membership is up to 15 women from different parts of the Cowichan Valley.

PORT ALBERNI — Council of both cities looked at reports showing rises in building figures.

In Alberni, building inspector Jack Freer reported $34,233 in building permits in May, compared with $15,825 in the same month of 1962. Total for the year to the end of May is $24,374, while the figure for the same period last year was $134,788.

Port Alberni's Inspector William Fraser reported May figures amounting to $293,000, compared with $200,185 for May, 1962. For the first five months of 1963, the total is Carson, Vancouver Island manager of a transfer firm, was remanded until June 20 for probation report and sentence.

A Saanich detective told court the investigation had been going on for weeks and said there were cases of wife-swapping. He said files were found in the home of the accused containing names of people to whom the accused sent stories.

NANAIMO—Mr. William Carey of the Salvation Army has been elected president of the Nanaimo Ministerial Association.

CAMPBELL RIVER—Fifty members of B.C. Lumber Survey were in Campbell River Wednesday visiting Elk Falls paper mill. The building and lumber supply dealers from Vancouver Island and the lower mainland will attend a banquet at the Legion Hall tonight.

NANAIMO — A three-act farce will be presented by the Yellow Point Drama Group in Cedar this fall.

At the first executive meeting of the season Monday night it was decided to stage "Pools Paradise" by Philip King in Cedar Community Hall Nov. 14 to 16. Old Age pensioners and wheelchair invalids will be invited to a full dress rehearsal Nov. 12. The executive also planned a busy 1963-64 season which will start with an open drama night in Cedar June 21. Anyone interested in drama is invited.

SHAWNIGAN LAKE — This year's British Columbia open water ski tournament will be held at Shawnigan Lake July 27 and 28. The event is sponsored by the Victoria Aqua Ski Club and will consist of slalom, tricks, jumping and special classes for junior girls and boys, women and men and water ski veterans. The tournament starts at 8 a.m. and ends at 6 p.m. Saturday and 5 p.m. Sunday.

LADYSMITH — LadySmith Gladies and Dabla Society chose Aug. 24 as the date for the 1963 summer show, to be held in the United Church Hall at Third Avenue and High Street.

The show will be open to the public between 2:30 and 6 p.m., and 7 to 9 p.m.

SALTAR — Saltair ratemakers will hold a meeting Saturday to discuss fire protection with fire chiefs from Chemainus and Ladysmith. The question of oyster leases will come under discussion and a new slate of officers will be elected.

CHEMAINUS — The Arbutus chapter of the IOOF, at this week's anniversary meeting, awarded four charter members—Mrs. Joseph Sandland, Mrs. L. B. McKinnon, Mrs. Ray Milligan and Mrs. Robert McBride—25 year pins.

COOMBS — Members of the Old Age Pensioners club and horseshoe pitching club held their annual banquet at the Coombs community hall. Winners in the crib series for the season were Mrs. D. J. Hill and C. G. Peterson.

Delegates Rap Poultry Plant

DUNCAN — A delegation of taxpayers from the Garden Street and Queen Road area, backed by a petition from neighbors, appeared before city council to oppose any reopening of a $45,000 poultry processing plant.

COUNCIL ASKED

Owned by the nearby Cowichan Creamery Association, the plant was operated by Maplewood Poultry Processors now located in Victoria.

Council had earlier been asked to meet with creamery officials to discuss reopening of the plant, which formerly employed about 20 people, by another private firm.

The delegation said poor housekeeping at the plant had created a nuisance, and they feared a repetition with any reopening.

Mayor Jack Dobson assured the delegation the situation would be investigated thoroughly. "Your petition will not be ignored."

Council also decided to move for improvement of a pedestrian crosswalk, now considered inadequate, at the new shopping plaza at Trunk Road and the Trans-Canada Highway.

Port Alberni Needs Better Fire Trucks

PORT ALBERNI — Some-thing must be done about the city's inadequate fire-fighting equipment, Mayor Loran Jordan said when a report from Fire Chief W. P. Venables was read at council meeting.

The matter was referred to the committee of the whole for consideration.

Chief Venables said in a written report to council the proposed mutual aid plan outlined by the provincial fire marshal would, in his opinion, be advantageous to Port Alberni.

"However, we are in no position to reciprocate. Our fire trucks are old and in need of repairs. In fact, we have only one hose and pump truck which can be used with any degree of reliability."

"Our No. 1 truck, now more than 20 years old, will shortly have to be taken out of service for a complete engine overhaul. Even this will not alter the fact the truck would still be under-powered and parts for it are still difficult to obtain."

Bad News for Banger

When Wolverhampton Wanderers started what they considered a rebuilding season in the English Football League's first division this year, much of their hope lay with Ted Farmer.

Farmer didn't disappoint them. In the first 11 games he scored 10 goals and the Wolves were off and running with nine wins and two draws. Then, slight manager Stan Cullis, "Ted broke his ankle. We went into a tailspin."

HURTS BACK

Just when Farmer appeared ready to play again he injured his back in practice. In all he missed three months of the season, and while he was gone Wolves could do little right although they finished a respectable fifth in the first division.

Now Farmer is fit again, and that could be bad news for Bangu, Vancouver and Victoria all-stars, who all play the touring Wanderers. Bangu of Brazil meets them Saturday in Vancouver's Empire Stadium.

Wanderers come to Victoria against the all-stars Monday, and play Vancouver all-stars at Vancouver June 19.

Wanderers are a young team, with five regulars 19 or under and two others 21. Two of them, Robert Thomson and Alan Hinton, stayed home to play for the all-England under-21 side, but their absence apparently hasn't hurt Wolves on their tour to date.

Wolves have played six games, won them all while scoring 26 goals and giving up only five. The match they termed their hardest, against the Mexican Select team in San Francisco, they won 3-0.

WELL SCOUTED

Saturday's match will be the first one for Wolves against Bangu, but they go into it with a thorough scouting report on the Brazilian side. It was given them by Kilmarnock of the Scottish League, which played Bangu twice and lost both times.

Nor are Wanderers taking any chances on underestimating the mainland all-stars.

When all-stars played an exhibition game against a select team from the Mainland League last night, Wolves were in the stands watching.

One of the Wanderers' young net rated a future great in English football is goalkeeper Fred Davies. Tour manager George Anderson of Winnipeg, secretary of the Canadian Soccer Football Association, enthusiastically rates him "one of the best I've ever seen, sure to become England's International keeper."

Another to watch is Chris Crowe, an English International who was obtained from Blackburn Rovers in 1960 for a reported $50,000. He plays either inside or centre-forward.

Complete roster of the touring team is as follows:

Wills, McCovey Hitting Heroes

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Maury Wills, who has made 16 hits in his last 23 at-bats, slammed three singles and a double and scored three runs Wednesday night as Los Angeles Dodgers regained the National League lead by defeating Houston 3-1.

The victory moved the Dodgers two percentage points ahead of the St. Louis Cardinals, who lost 6-2 to Philadelphia.

At San Francisco Willie McCovey blasted two homers, driving in all the Giants' runs as San Francisco whipped Chicago Cubs 3-1 behind the four-hit pitching of lanky Bob Bolin.

The victory left the Giants in a tie with St. Louis Cardinals for second place, just two percentage points behind the Dodgers.

Philadelphia Phillies staged two three-run outbursts in a continued jinx over the Cardinals to defeat them 6-2. In other NL games, Milwaukee Braves blanked New York Mets 9-0 and Cincinnati Reds shut out Pittsburgh Pirates 3-0.

In the American League, Roger Maris' single drove across the winning run as New York Yankees edged Baltimore Orioles 3-2 in a 10-inning duel.

With the Orioles' infield shifted to right for lefty batter Maris, he slapped his single cleanly through the shortstop hole.

The victory was the Yankees fourth in the last 11 games and the loss was Baltimore's 11th in their last 13.

McCovey, whose three-run homer beat Los Angeles on Tuesday night, slammed one over the fence in the first against Bob Buhl of the Cubs and crashed solo when he leaped him in the third.

Most strikeouts

Bolin, usually a reliever, started his second game of the season and struck out 14 Cubs, the most strikeouts for a Giant hurler this year.

Bobby Richardson started the Yankees 15th when he reached base on Brooks Robinson's error at third. He was sacrificed to second, and after a walk to Elton Howard, Maris connected off losing reliever Stu Miller. The winner was reliever Marshall Bridges 1-0.

Pete Ward's clean single to centre in the sixth inning broke up Turley's no-hit bid in the game at Chicago.

Trial Tale

Knife Taken Away

NANAIMO — A 26-year-old construction worker told an assize court jury Wednesday how he wrested a knife away from a young Japanese in Ucluelet on the morning Robert Lee McDermott was fatally stabbed.

Henry Wiens was testifying at the trial of Hiroshi Hama, charged with non-capital murder following McDermott's death early March 19.

TIMES GIVEN

Wiens told the all-male jury he flew into Ucluelet March 18 to work. After work on his first day, he said, he and McDermott and two other friends went to the beer parlor in the Ucluelet Lodge Hotel. He said they were there from shortly after 5 p.m. until shortly before 7 p.m.

Wiens testified that after a few more drinks in the cocktail bar they went up town for supper. He said McDermott did not come along for supper.

The witness went on to tell of more drinking in a Ucluelet club before finally returning to the hotel around 1 a.m. At that time Wiens and his companions went up to McDermott's room. Wiens said McDermott was in the room "having a beer" with a man who was introduced to him as Hiroshi Hama.

He said he stayed in McDermott's room long enough to have a bottle of beer. During the time he was there he noticed that at one point McDermott threw Hama over his head onto the bed.

TOO LAMP
He said Hama picked up a lamp and raised it at McDermott, but one of the other men took the lamp from Hama.

Wiens testified that one other time he saw Hama raise a beer bottle to McDermott, and the bottle was taken away by one of the men. He said at this point one of the men told Hama to "smarten up."

Wiens said he spoke up and said: "I am the smallest man in the room. If you want to fight I'll fight you outside without bottles."

SMOOTHED OVER
He testified McDermott then smoothed things over by putting his arm around Hama and saying "We're friends."

Wiens said everyone else left the room before him, and he stayed to finish his beer. When he was leaving, he said, he heard something behind him which made him look around.

He said he saw McDermott leaning against the door jamb of another room as though he had been pushed.

Wiens went into this room and saw McDermott standing right in front of Hama, who was lying back on a bed. He said Hama had a knife in his hand and there was blood on McDermott's shirt.

Wiens testified he stepped in between the two men and wrestled with Hama. He said he may have struck Hama in the struggle but made him drop the knife on the bed by equesting his wrist.

Wiens said when the knife fell on the bed he threw it behind him. He did not observe McDermott during this time.

HELP CAME
Wiens said he held Hama and called for help. When help came he called police. He said the next time he saw the knife it was lying in the corridor and McDermott was lying near it.

Cross-examined by defence counsel David Sturdy, Wiens denied knowing anything more about the struggle in the room. The trial is continuing.

Cagers Win Scholarships

PORT ALBERNI — Alex Brayden and Gary Grunlund of Alberni Chieftains, who led their team to the final of the B.C. High School Basketball Tournament last season, have each been awarded a $200 scholarship to University of British Columbia.

Awards were two of five presented by the B.C. High School Basketball Association each year. Qualities of leadership, citizenship and academic standing are also taken into consideration when the players were selected.

Story and Picture by JUBGEN HESSE

How would you feel if a huge South American parrot was brought within inches of your face while its keeper tells you cheerfully the bird's specialty is to sever fingers at the first joint?

You might feel frightened, but it's really quite harmless. That's what Cecil Hyndman says and I had every reason to believe him after he pulled off incredible stunts.

New Hotel Open Soon

CAMPBELL RIVER — The chairman of the village commission, R. D. Jamieson, will cut the ribbon to the new $120,000 Discovery Inn at the Tyee Plaza at 3 p.m. Sunday. The hotel opens to the public Monday.

Union Issue Solved

CAMPBELL RIVER — Thirty-five pipe fitters, who walked off the job Monday at Elk Falls paper mill, reported back for work Wednesday.

The dispute arose between Pulp and Sulphite Workers' Union and the Building Trades Union over work classification. The two unions' leaders met this week and settled their differences, involving workers in the sulphite union being used for pipefitting.

Union chiefs of men employed on the construction site of the $35,000,000 extension claimed they should be employed to do this work.

Noble Task For Islander

A native of Duncan will take a principal part in the ceremony of the Most Noble Order of the Garter in St. George's Chapel at Windsor Castle, England, Monday.

He is Dr. Conrad Swan, roge dragon and pursuivant of arms, whose appointment to the royal household and the College of Heraldry was announced in London last December.

Dr. Swan, educated at Duncan, is the grandson of Alfred Green of Duncan and the nephew of Claude Green, chairman of the King's Daughters Hospital board.

On Addition

Hospital Vote In August

LADYSMITH — In August 3,400 residents in the hospital improvement district here will vote on a $123,222 money bylaw for a 10-bed addition to the existing 32-bed Ladysmith Hospital.

Cost of the addition will be $289,000, and the difference of $165,768 will be shared between the federal and provincial governments.

Hospital administrator Ian Peddie said as soon as the sketch plans are formally approved by the provincial government, Victoria architect Donald Wagg will prepare the working drawings.

ASKED SINCE '59
The present hospital was built by Mr. Wagg in 1957, and since March, 1960, Mr. Peddie has been asking for the addition, saying the children's ward is holding double as many patients as it was built for.

He added the construction start could be delayed for another year, depending on governmental approvals.

Licensing Loophole

$60,000 Revenue Eyed

PORT ALBERNI — Revenue to the city could amount to $60,000 a year if the bylaw covering licensing of outside firms selling in this area were enforced. Port Alberni Chamber of Commerce was told at the regular weekly meeting.

Irving Wilson spoke to the group, telling of a study he had made during the past year. Goods and services offered by local firms are being sold here by many firms which pay no licence fees either in Alberni or Port Alberni.

306 FIRMS LISTED
He said he had listed 306 unlicensed firms selling retail in the area. "With a few exceptions they are all homebased," he said.

Woman Guilty, Deportation Due

NANAIMO — A deportation order will save an English woman from serving the 18-month sentence she received for fraud Wednesday in magistrate's court.

Court was informed a deportation order is expected from Ottawa on Mrs. Audrey Sheffield, who pleaded guilty to 20 charges of fraud involving worthless cheques.

IN OTHER PARTS

Magistrate Lionel Beevor Potts said he had received reports of similar offences in other parts of Canada.

Nanaimo lawyer John Morton said the woman had been under severe emotional strain and the cheques had been for small amounts.

PROTECT PUBLIC

The magistrate said Mrs. Sheffield was apparently suffering from anxiety neurosis but added the sentence was necessary to protect the public.

Mrs. Sheffield, of Swansea, Wales, is a divorcee and has two sons, aged 16 and 11, with her. Another son and her parents reside in Swansea.

Route of Haidas Needed If Island Is to Prosper

COURTENAY — The route of the Haidas is badly needed if Vancouver Island is to prosper, Allan MacLean said here this week.

Mr. MacLean is vice-president of the North Pacific Coastway, a non-profit group dedicated to pressing for a road to the northern tip of the Island and ferries from Port Hardy to Prince Rupert.

AND INTERIOR

Purpose of this Haida route would be to bring people from Alaska and the B.C. Interior through Vancouver Island.

At present, ferries from Alaska go as far as Prince Rupert, and people travelling south from there must go inland and south on an unnecessarily long journey.

Mr. MacLean said that, unless a quicker route was provided, the Alaska ferries might be forced to go direct to Seattle and B.C. would lose a lot of business.

He pointed out such a route would be good for the B.C. businessman. At present, commercial travellers go through the interior, then spend "dead time" recovering the ground in order to get to the Island.

With an Island highway and ferry to Prince Rupert, travellers and tourists would have a circular route through B.C.

'Fertile Rain' Plan Probable First In North America

By KLAUS MUENTZER

COWICHAN — Intensive farming is the main principle on retired Group Capt. Joseph Fall's 43-acre dairy operation about five miles south of Duncan.

The former RAF officer, after 30 years of service, returned to his father's farm after the Second World War and has applied the most modern farming methods available.

He probably will be the first farmer on the North American continent to use manure irrigation with the use of a special pump and spray nozzles.

The special equipment was developed in England by the Wright Rain Co. and obtained through the Cowichan Creamery Association.

With the "fertile rain" the forage crop will be sharply increased. The former RAF officer will continue to use the "secret formula" of his prosperous operation — chicken manure which he hauls from one of his neighbors' farms. The basic equipment of the "manure rain" is his original Sigmund irrigation system which was one of the first on Vancouver Island.

HE EXPLAINED his 90 Jersey cattle, of which 55 are milkers, have plenty of fodder from the relatively small area. Only 20 acres yield 300 tons of silage and between 20 and 30 tons of hay. Daily, 17 cans of 100 pounds of milk each are shipped to Victoria.

The cows are directed into the milking parlor by moving levers and pushing buttons and the milk, without being touched by hands, flows into the vacuum bulk tank from which it is finally drained into the bulk truck every morning. Until the manure rain is completely established on Klamath Farm, the older method of spraying will be carried out from a 1,000-gallon tank pulled by a tractor.

Although Mr. Fall has one hired hand, he said, "The farm can be managed single-handed."

ELIMINATION interviews will be held today and Friday at Tom O'Reilly's home at the Woodwyn Farm, Saanich, for 13 South Vancouver Island 4-H members of whom eight will be selected for the provincial 4-H Club week July 8 to 13, at New Denver.

The elimination exercise will consist of an oral examination with 4-H supervisor Ken Jamieson of Duncan in charge.

At the provincial club week, 14 youngsters will be elected to represent British Columbia at the national 4-H Club conference in Toronto this November. Also elected will be a boy or girl from B.C., 17 years or older, for the 3000 Canadian exhibition scholarship, and a girl to attend the national 4-H Club conference of the American body in Washington, D.C., in 1964.

SOUTH VANCOUVER Island 4-H members taking the oral examination at Saanich will be: Cheryl Moyer, North Saanich Goat Club; Mary Lord, Saanich Home Arts; Wendy Baker, Saanich Art; Raymond Reimer, Saanich Art; Albert Hull, 35 Beef; Nancy Miller, Saanich Home Arts; John Stanlake, Saanich Jersey; Janet Lannon, Saanich Home Arts; Reg Hoole, Saanich Jersey; Don Albert, 35 Beef; Mary Jane Williams, Saanich Jersey; Bruce Wilson, South Malahat tractor; and Peggy Childs, Loxton Holstein.

Hospital Issue

Pensioners Hail Attack

NANAIMO — The hospital board is about to violate democratic rights in Nanaimo, charges Joe Sutton.

Mr. Sutton, president of Nanaimo Old Age Pensioners, told a spirited meeting Tuesday night plans to sell the old hospital to clear the way for a new private hospital would be a violation of the mandate given the hospital board by the voters.

He said one of the points in the vote approving the new regional hospital was that the old hospital be turned into a chronic care institution.

Mr. Sutton, to the cheers of about 300 pensioners, said their rights are being sacrificed to "profiteering of commercial interests."

Plans have been submitted for the building of a private hospital on the site of the old hospital.

A public meeting of hospital board members, city officials and the OAP is expected to be called shortly.

NANAIMO — Two rather unusual gardeners live as next-door neighbors here.

At 110 Stewart Avenue live Mr. and Mrs. William Lorne Dunn, who recently celebrated their 62nd wedding anniversary.

Outside the Dunn home is a rose bush which literally sports thousands of rose blooms and all from one root.

Mrs. Dunn, 61 and one year younger than her husband, says she has been gardening all her life and has never seen a bush with such abundant blooms from a single root.

The house next door also sports a fine display of roses. This is the home of Billy Lewis, who next month celebrates his 100th birthday.

Menzies Airliner Has Bomb Scare

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters) — A London-bound airliner carrying Prime Minister Sir Robert Menzies was called back to Sydney airport Wednesday after an anonymous telephone caller claimed there was a bomb aboard the plane.

Menzies' wife, Dame Pattie, and their son, Kenneth, also were aboard the Boeing 707 jetliner of Australia's Qantas Airlines.

Kennedy Fear True?

ATLANTA (UPI)—The "rising tide" of racial discontent of which President Kennedy warned swept cities both North and South Thursday.

Jackson, Miss., where integration leader Medgar Evers was shot to death by a sniper, appeared to be potentially most explosive. The slaying touched off a new round of demonstrations in the city which has been quiet in recent days.

Tuscaloosa, Ala., while outwardly less of a tinder box, was far from normal. Hundreds of troops were moving into the city for possible duty at the University of Alabama, where two Negroes were admitted Monday.

There have been no signs of disorder on the campus, but the troops were moved up when Gov. George Wallace advised Kennedy the state would not be responsible for the safety of the students.

The president went before a national radio-television audience Tuesday to express regrets it had been necessary to use troops to get Negroes admitted. He urged every American to examine his conscience on the integration issue and warned of a "rising tide of discontent that threatens the public safety."

On the heels of his words came these developments:

Greek King Fights Crisis

ATHENS (AP)—King Paul summoned opposition political leaders to his palace Wednesday in an effort to pull Greece out of a government crisis.

The political leaders came out of the meeting saying the best solution for the crisis would be for the king to appoint an interim government.

Macmillan Must Go Cabinet Rebels Feel

LONDON (Reuters)—Political observers were skeptical Wednesday night of assurances from the scandal-ridden Conservative government that a Conservative party revolt to oust Prime Minister Harold Macmillan had been safely avoided. (See also Page 18.)

The right-wing Daily Express carried the headline "Cabinet Revolt" above an article claiming at least four members of Macmillan's cabinet are considering trying to force Macmillan to resign.

The four ministers were reported ready to use their own resignations as a weapon to force Macmillan to quit before next Monday's parliamentary debate on the Profumo scandal—the worst crisis Macmillan has ever faced.

The Independent Times of London says the "sorry business" resulting from the scandal over ex-war minister John Profumo who resigned because he lied about his affair with a London model "has passed from being one of politics to one of conscience."

The Times said the real test may come today when the cabinet meets.

"Certainly one or two ministers, perhaps four in all, will have to come to terms with

Jagan Shoots Way Out

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (AP)—With bodyguards firing pistols from both sides of the car, leftist Premier Cheddi Jagan's automobile burst through a hostile crowd outside the Parliament Building Wednesday. Six persons were reported injured.

The incident occurred after a move toward a dictatorship. Trades Union Council squatters, increasingly menacing in their eight-week general strike, had trapped Jagan, dentist of East Indian origin, and the rest of his cabinet in the building. The strike was called to protest against a labor bill which Jagan's foes say would give the premier control over workers in housing incidents Tuesday.

Shocker Says Senator

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Richard Russell, leader of the Southern Congressional bloc, charged Wednesday President Kennedy was raising the spectre of mass racial violence to push civil rights proposals that were a step in the direction of socialism or communism.

Russell assailed the president's Tuesday civil rights speech as "shocking" and pledged to lead a fight against the administration's legislative package "with every means and resource at my command."

The Georgia Democrat took his stand in a statement issued as a caucus of Southern senators met behind closed doors to map strategy that undoubtedly would include a filibuster against the president's program.

Against the background of the ambush slaying of Negro integration leader Medgar Evers in Jackson, Miss., these other developments bore on the civil rights legislative picture.

Kennedy conferred with former president Dwight Eisenhower on the civil rights legislation he will send Congress next week and the racial problem in general.

Sen. Thurston Morton of Kentucky predicted the administration will be unable to pick up enough Republican votes to end a civil rights filibuster but said southern opposition could be beaten down by around-the-clock Senate sessions.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—A police dispatcher noted it was only 27 degrees, not too hot for this time of year, and immediately sent a car to arrest a man reported mowing his lawn in the snow.

MONTREAL (CP) —

Twenty-one members of the terrorist group Le Front de Liberation Quebecois were held criminally responsible Wednesday for the death by dynamite explosion of an army night watchman last April 20.

The late-night time-bomb blast was one of a series of terrorist activities in the Montreal area from March 8 when gasoline bottles were flung at Montreal Armories and May 20 when an armory was the scene of a dynamite blast.

A coroner's court jury of five men, ending a sometimes stormy three-day inquest, brought in a four-to-one majority verdict naming one by one the 21 persons, mostly in their teens and early 20s and one of them a young woman.

BY CORONER

All 21 were named by coroner Marcel Trahan in his address to the jury as members of the FLQ, "a group organized for the purpose of violence."

He said: "I believe the evidence demands that you find all of them criminally responsible. However, it is not up to me. You are the masters of the facts."

Jacques Ducros, a lawyer for the Crown, said that charges will be laid "as early as possible — perhaps within 48 hours."

MURDER CHARGE:

He was asked whether there would be charges of murder as a result of the death of Wilfred Vincent O'Neill, 65, killed when a bomb exploded at the rear of an army recruiting station.

"That is being studied," he said.

Reporters then asked whether the Crown would proceed by preferred indictment—a procedure bypassing the formality of a preliminary hearing—to send the 21 persons to trial immediately.

WRAPPED UP

"That, too, is being studied," Mr. Ducros said.

A reporter asked: "Does this wrap up the FLQ?" He nodded.

"Do you have them all?"

"Yes."

The group concerned in the inquest verdict includes 13 material witnesses arrested in a series of police raids starting June 1. Held on coroner's warrants without charges, some have been in detention since that weekend.

The names of the six others came up in testimony at the inquest. Three of them were picked up by police Wednesday, one of them spotted in the court

Which One of Four?

Grave Yields Boy's Body

QUEBEC (CP)—Quebec Provincial Police Wednesday night found the naked body of a small boy in a shallow grave in Portneuf County, where they have been searching for clues to the disappearance of four boys in the last seven weeks.

Inspector J. Alphonse Matte said parents of the missing boys have been called to the morgue to try to identify the body.

It had apparently been buried beneath about eight inches of sandy soil for several weeks, he said.

NO INDICATION

There was no indication how the boy had died. He appeared to be about eight or 10 years old and weighed about 75 pounds. Inspector Matte said the teeth likely would lead to identification.

The body was found after dark by Inspector Matte, Sgt. Andre Ste. Marie and Cpl. J. A. Landry.

HUNTING CROWN

A youth in Portneuf County about 25 miles west of Quebec City was hunting crows Wednesday when he noticed them circling in one area.

This was what led police to the grave, in a meadow surrounded by trees and deep in the woods.

Secretary-treasurer Homer Stevens explained how the union literature got into the envelopes bearing the initials and free mailing privileges — Frank — of Dr. William Howe, Hamilton South MP.

He said a union delegation was in the office Dr. Howe shares with New Westminster MP Barry Mathew. The delegation realized a release had not been sent to all Pacific Coast MPs.

The delegation in particular wanted to reach Grant Deschman, Liberal member for Vancouver Quadra, who raised the issue about use of the frank in the Commons Tuesday.

"It would have only taken a few minutes to have walked over to our hotel and mailed Mr. Deschman's and a few other notes, free of charge from there, using hotel envelopes. If we were such skinflints as is now suggested," said Mr. Stevens.

"However, unaware of the possible misconstruction that might be placed on so doing, the notes and releases were put in envelopes which apparently bore Dr. Howe's initials. We apologize to Dr. Howe and his staff for any embarrassment arising from this incident."

Part of a body, tentatively identified as that of Meriguet, were found May 27 by RCMP search dogs at an isolated Alaska Highway gravel pit 225 miles southeast of Whitehorse.

RCMP at Whitehorse are awaiting reports on tests at the force's crime laboratory in Regina.

WHITEHORSE, Yukon (CP)—Kroli Marzi, 26, an immigrant from Hungary now in the B.C. Penitentiary, has been charged with capital murder in the death of Henry Meriguet, 20, of Anancy, France, RCMP announced Wednesday.

Marzi, now serving 43 months in the penitentiary at New Westminster for burglary and theft, was charged Saturday.
